Ferry Service May Be Resumed Monday, Hagginbothom Says

Date Is Not Definite, He Reports; Result of Inspection Awaited

Coast Guard inspection of the Kingston-Rhinecliff ferry which began Wednesday was still under way today in preparation for resumption of service possibly by Monday, William K. Hagginbothom, of Poughkeepsie, executive secretary of the New York Bridge Authority, reported today.

Mr. Hagginbothom said that no definite date for resumption of service can be set until the Coast Guard reports on its inspection which was expected to be completed today.

It had been tentatively planned to resume service between March 22 and April 1, but the authorities indicated that the ferry will not begin its schedule before Monday, and possibly later.

It is understood also, although not officially established yet, that the ferry schedule will be the same as that of last year.

Work Begins on Parking Meters

Dozen Meter Stanchions Are Tampered With Downtown

Plumber Says Rondout Merchants Think Meters Will Confuse

A prediction that Kingston's parking meters will cause confusion came from the downtown sector today as the police announced a move to protect the meter stanchions already installed following the report that 12 had been tampered with.

Police Chief Ernest A. Boss said this morning that special patrolman Royal Mich had been assigned ahead of schedule to the downtown area after it was learned that apparent attempts had been made to remove stanchions from the fresh concrete in which they are bedded.

The special officer was not due to go on duty until next Sunday the police chief reported, but he was called in last night when the meter bases were reported damaged. He was assigned specifically to guard the stanchions and to assist the regular patrolman on the downtown beat.

Store Leases Site; To Make Changes

Broadway Mayfair to Move to Building at 664 Broadway

Another central Broadway business change will be made about May 1 when The Broadway Mayfair, now located at 638 Broadway, will open a large and modern store in the building owned by Anthony G. Saccoman at the corner of Broadway and Downs street. The building was formerly occupied by the Detroit Auto Supply Company.

Mrs. A. J. Cordeau, owner of The Broadway Mayfair and The Mayfair at 316 Wall street, has leased from Mr. Saccoman for a number of years the store property at 664 Broadway. Plans have been made to modernize the store and a new up-to-date front will be installed.

When the new store is opened Mrs. Cordeau will enlarge the line of merchandise carried by The Broadway Mayfair to include a full line of women's dresses, infants' goods, rain wear and gifts. Prior to opening, the interior of the store as well as the display windows will be altered and it is planned to place a new design corner show window in the store. Alterations will be started April 1.

The Mayfair at 316 Wall street has been operated for several years by Mrs. Cordeau and will be continued as in the past. The Broadway Mayfair store was opened some time ago and has proven so successful that it has become necessary to secure larger quarters, Mrs. Cordeau stated that the Broadway store was originally opened as an experiment but has worked out so well that it has been decided to expand the business by securing additional space and adding the new lines of merchandise. The new store has a large frontage on Broadway and extends back some 75 feet along Downs street.

Mr. Saccoman intends to make alterations to the apartments on the upper floors of the building.

Mr. Saccoman purchased the building about a year ago. It was formerly known as the Hutton building.

For some time the store has been occupied by the Detroit Auto Supply Company, dealers in automobile parts and supplies. The Detroit Auto Supply Company moved this week to the building located

Says Truman, Marshall Differ About Democracy

Moscow, March 20 (AP)—The government newspaper Izvestia declared today that President Truman's proposals to aid Greece contrasted strangely with the definition of American democracy which Secretary of State Marshall gave the Foreign Ministers Council last Friday.

"It is well-known," asserted an article by Commentator R. Moran, "that discussions on democracy often serve merely as a pretty facade concealing frank neglect for the interests of democratic peoples.

"As a fresh example the present situation in Greece may be pointed to. Here the United States is supporting a policy against which the majority of the Greek people are fighting with all their strength in the name of defending democracy."

Britain Battles Spreading Floods; Position 'Desperate'

By JACK SMITH

London, March 20 (AP)—Thousands of soldiers, civilians, police and German war prisoners fought a losing battle today to hold back overflowing rivers that already had spread destruction and misery through scores of towns and villages. Aid was on the way to stricken communities.

Two army amphibians sped toward the mining village of Bentley near Doncaster in northern England, where a telegraphed SOS said last night 1,000 persons had been trapped without food for more than 24 hours.

"Position desperate," E. Whitley, chairman of the Bentley urban district council, wired Evelyn Walkden, member of Parliament for the area. Whitley said small boats could not get through churning waters of the Don river surrounding the town and added: "Power-driven boats essential for food distribution and evacuation of people." Walkden arranged for army help.

The amphibians were not expected to reach the town until late today.

Meanwhile, Doncaster police planned another attempt to take food in by rowboat.

In the Thames valley, two villages were to be evacuated, and police delivered coal in rowboats to marooned invalids at Caversham.

Hundreds of fresh troops and more convoys of equipment and material were rushed to Ely in the marshy eastern Fenland region to fight widening breaches in the banks of the Great Ouse river.

Rivers throughout the industrial midlands were over their banks

Austin Is To Report To Truman

Will Give U.N. Stand Toward Proposed American Aid to Greece, Turkey

Group Will Meet

Armament Conference Is Called for Monday Session

Lake Success, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—American Delegate Warren R. Austin today carried a report direct to President Truman on United Nations reaction toward proposed American aid to Greece and Turkey.

As Austin faced a series of conferences with State Department and high administration officials in Washington, the U. N. turned from atomic energy to lesser weapons of death in its far-reaching program for world disarmament.

The 12-nation Atomic Energy Commission, with Soviet Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko in the chair, voted unanimously to refer the the report on atomic control back to its working committees in another attempt for agreement on basic issues where the United States and Russia still stand far apart. Committee work probably will begin next Tuesday.

Hardly had the commission adjourned its first meeting of this year when Secretary-General Trygve Lie called the commission on conventional armaments into session for next Monday 3 p. m.). This group will deal with all reduction plans outside the field of atomic energy and weapons of mass destruction.

Will Represent U. S.

Austin also will represent the United States on the new body and was expected to take up basic United States proposals on his Washington trip. Later Austin will name a deputy to sit through the long sessions anticipated in preparing an initial report on arms reduction by May 13.

The announcement of the first arms commission meeting followed by only one day a Senate resolution introduced by Sen. Tydings (D.-Md.) calling on President Truman to summon a world conference to consider total disarmament. Tydings labeled the U. N. "a glorified debating society" and said it was incapable of handling the problem.

As Austin entrained for Washington, the strongest Republican opposition to President Truman's Greek-Turkish program appeared to be developing around the argument that the problem belonged to the U. N. Austin said he had no specific recommendations to offer on the question, but there was no doubt that he was conscious of a pessimistic feeling over the Truman proposal prevalent in many quarters here.

Session Is Postponed

This trip gives Austin his first opportunity to report on the impact of the President's speech and also to talk over such other issues at the coming arms commission, the atomic question and the still-hanging Pacific island trusteeship plans.

Austin considered the joint so important that he requested and was granted postponement of Friday's Security Council meeting on the Japanese islands proposal.

Meanwhile, Deputy Delegate Herschel V. Johnson was assigned the American chair today (3 p. m.) for council consideration of Great Britain's mine-laying charges against Albania. The report of a three-nation committee, which studied the case nearly two weeks without reaching any conclusions, rests on the table.

Cleaner Is Locked Out

New York, March 20 (AP)—A window cleaner suddenly found himself locked outside 21 floors above Madison avenue today. Peter Cobbs, 28, was washing windows on the 21st floor of a 43-story office building in Madison avenue, near 48th street, and discovered that the window had become locked. His yells and pounding on the window brought the head porter, who opened the window and let Cobbs in just before a police emergency squad, summoned by a passerby, arrived.

Temporary 'Project Fund' Is Liquidated; Whalen Acts as Superintendent at Strand Plant

Shifts in the Board of Public Works personnel due to liquidation of the temporary "project fund" were approved by the board in special session Wednesday afternoon.

First steps were also taken to establish a superintendent and assistant at the local sewage treatment plant, a painting contract was awarded and bids considered on the relocation of water system curb cocks on North Front street.

Through special resolution the board requested the Municipal Civil Service Commission to sanction creation of the new posts and appointed Richard Whalen as acting superintendent of the plant.

An examination for the positions will be held upon approval of the commission. The salary range is set at $3,000 to $3,300.

Under authorized changes arising from cessation of the project fund, Henry Kremper, who had been senior clerk, department of engineering, will be senior clerk, department of recreation.

Norman Markle, who held the post to be taken by Kremper, is to be employed at the treatment plant. H. Chris Bonesteel, whose job as senior clerk on the project fund is abolished, also is to be employed temporarily at the treatment plant. The board voted to place Bonsteel on the civil service preferred list.

The position of acting motor equipment operator held by Joseph T. Whalen under the project fund also is abolished by yesterday's action of the board. City Engineer Arthur Hallinan, who requested the board's action on the changes, explained that they were necessary because of the termination of project fund work.

Other Transfers

Other personnel transfers sanctioned by the board February 26, were announced approved by the Municipal Civil Service Commission. Those who have been shifted from the project fund to the Board of Public Works are: Walter Riggins, acting principal clerk; Louis Straley, junior engineer, grade one; Edmund T. Cloonan, junior engineer, grade two and Bernard O'Neil, engineering aid, grade one.

The J. R. Shults paint company was awarded the contract for 500 gallons of white traffic paint at $2.34 a gallon, less two per cent for cash. Other bids offered by several local concerns ranged from $2.70 a gallon to the next lowest $2.55.

City Engineer Hallinan and a board committee were authorized to study two bids on the relocation of North Front street curb cocks in conjunction with a project to widen the street.

J. H. Matthews bid $46 per unit to relocate the 75 curb cock units and the Conway Plumbing Company bid $64 per unit.

Thompson Calls Talmadge Plan 'Invitation to Fraud'

Court-Declared Head of Georgia Hits at 'White Supremacy' Measures

By ROMNEY WHEELER

Atlanta, Ga., March 20 (AP)—Gov. Melvin E. Thompson declared today that Herman Talmadge and his political associates no longer had the right to speak for the Democratic party, and branded the Talmadge-sponsored "white supremacy" legislation as an invitation to fraud and stolen elections.

In a speech prepared for a joint session of the Georgia legislature, just 24 hours after the state supreme court had rejected Talmadge's claim to the governorship, Thompson said:

"Those who sought to seize the state of Georgia for their selfish ends, and who undertook to prostitute the Democratic platform to extend their own reign, now have no right to speak for the Democratic party.

"Their program is not the people's program. It is not the Democratic program, it is not my program. No selfish group can exploit Georgia, and no selfish group will ever control Georgia so long as elections are free."

Thompson, who must pass on 151 bills apparently signed illegally by Talmadge, indicated he might veto Talmadge's number-one measure, the so-called "white primary" bill.

He declared, however, he favored restoration of the Democratic white primary, and asked enactment of legislation which would set rigid education requirements for voting and provide separate voting booths for white persons and negroes.

Acheson Says Help Must Come Now

Situation Is So Serious We Can't Wait for U.N., He Says

Washington, March 20 (AP)—Undersecretary of State Acheson expressed conviction today that American intervention in Greece and Turkey to block the spread of Communism will not "lead to war."

That question was raised by Rep. Mansfield, (D.-Mont.) as the House Foreign Affairs Committee questioned Acheson on President Truman's broad program to send money, material and military missions to the two Mediterranean countries.

Acheson hesitated for a moment and then solemnly declared:

"I was going to say—no possibility that it would lead to war." He paused again then added:

"I don't think it could lead to war. By strengthening the forces of democracy and freedom, you do a great deal to eliminate the friction between great powers."

On the other hand, he said, collapse of Greece and Turkey "might set off a chain reaction" among other countries—both to the east and to the west—"struggling under similar pressure."

He was asked bluntly by Rep. Smith (R.-Wis.) whether Congress should assume the United States will pursue the same policy in other countries.

"I don't think it is ever correct to assume anything," Acheson replied. "There are other areas in which we may not be able to give help. There are countries in which we may give aid in a different way.

Fort Dearborn's Survivors Acclaim Ship's Radio Man

San Francisco, March 20 (AP)—A one-armed radio operator who finally ground out a prayerful distress signal on a makeshift set after four attempts had failed was acclaimed a hero today by 10 survivors of the broken tanker Fort Dearborn.

While the navy continued to search for 12 or 13 more crew members still missing, the 10 survivors who reached San Francisco yesterday told how their ship snapped apart just after midnight March 12 during a storm and cast them adrift on the bow section for 50 hours.

Interviewed aboard the liner General W. H. Gordon, one of the rescue vessels, they all credited "Sparks"—Radioman Henry F. Wiehr of Los Angeles—with saving their lives.

Wiehr, despite the handicap of only one arm and smashed glasses, sought vainly to transmit an SOS with broken, water-soaked equipment, and finally, with the help of the chief steward, rigged an emergency set in the charthouse.

The weak SOS was picked up by the S.S. John Foster nine hours after the Fort Dearborn broke, and was relayed to the American President Liner General Gordon which was closer to the wreck scene. The General Gordon steamed 300 miles through heavy seas and reached the drifting bow section in 16 hours.

Two of the Gordon's lifeboats were smashed and one, eight-man crew nearly lost in the initial rescue attempts before the survivors were picked up by a motor launch from a second rescue ship, the freighter St. John Victory. They later were transferred to the Gordon.

Wiehr, told of the nightmarish

Judge Says He Desires To Be Fair

Only Fair Thing Is to Let Jury Have Entire Picture, He Tells Delaney

Concession Asked

Noonan Asks Block to Concede Sugar Paid Back

New York, March 20 (AP)—Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins ruled today at the trial of Joseph Forman, former city corporation counsel for Kingston, N. Y., and others, that if certain statements by a government witness, containing "conflicting evidence of impeaching value to the defendants," were used by the defense they would be made available to the government.

These statements, made to authorities before the trial began, have not been introduced in court thus far.

Judge Watkins ruled yesterday that statements made by George Long, former manager of the Pure Rock Mineral Springs Corporation, at Ellenville, N. Y., contained "evidence of impeaching value to the defendants," and could be used by defense attorneys. Today he ruled that if the statements were used by the defense they would be made available to the government.

Forman is on trial with Harold Gottfried, former president of the Ellenville corporation, and William T. Stanton, of Kingston, a former O.P.A. investigator assigned to the Albany district, charged with a conspiracy to defraud the government of Stanton's impartial services in investigating the corporation's sugar consumption for 1941. Gottfried and the corporation are charged in a second indictment with the filing of false statements with the O.P.A. in order to obtain sugar rations.

"I assume that counsel has had opportunity to read the statements of Long," said Judge Watkins today. "Does counsel desire to use them?"

Desired to Use Them

Joseph L. Delaney, counsel for Forman, stated that he had read the statements and desired to use them in Forman's defense but would like the opportunity to consult with associate counsel to determine just what use of the statements they intend to make.

Long was the principal government witness to testify against Forman, and the court held that his testimony on the witness stand was at variance with statements Long had made, prior to the trial, to government agencies and before the Federal Grand Jury, which returned the indictments in January, 1946.

"I want to be fair to both sides in this matter," said Judge Watkins. "The government has not used the statements in any way and if the defense decides to use them I think it would be fair to let the government use them also."

Delaney Asks Questions

Delaney asked the court a series of questions relating to the partial use by the defense of the statements and the court ruled that if the statements were used at all; he would permit Frederick H. Block, assistant United States attorney, to read the full statements to the jury.

"That is the only fair thing to do, if you open up the matter," Judge Watkins said. "The only fair thing to do is to let the jury have the whole picture—after all, our purpose is to ascertain the truth and the whole truth. If you read portions of them, the government is entitled to read all of the statements."

The court ruled, however, that part of the statements, unrelated to the indictment being tried and containing evidence which is to be used by the government in the prosecution of other cases would not be made available to either side in the present trial.

Refuses Request

Block refused a request by Gregory F. Noonan, attorney for Gottfried, to concede that the Pure Rock Corporation does not currently owe the O.P.A. any sugar. Noonan said that the corporation's sugar supply was reduced, partially eliminated and in 1944, cut off entirely by the O.P.A. until an alleged overage had been paid back, in accordance with O.P.A. regulations. He said that the overage was paid back,

Noonan Asks Block to Concede Sugar Paid Back

New York, March 20 (AP)—Federal Judge Harry E. Watkins ruled today at the trial of Joseph Forman, former city corporation counsel for Kingston, N. Y., and others, that if certain statements by a government witness, containing "conflicting evidence of impeaching value to the defendants," were used by the defense they would be made available to the government.

These statements, made to authorities before the trial began, have not been introduced in court thus far.

Judge Watkins ruled yesterday that statements made by George Long, former manager of the Pure Rock Mineral Springs Corporation, at Ellenville, N. Y., contained "evidence of impeaching value to the defendants," and could be used by defense attorneys. Today he ruled that if the statements were used by the defense they would be made available to the government.

Forman is on trial with Harold Gottfried, former president of the Ellenville corporation, and William T. Stanton, of Kingston, a former O.P.A. investigator assigned to the Albany district, charged with a conspiracy to defraud the government of Stanton's impartial services in investigating the corporation's sugar consumption for 1941. Gottfried and the corporation are charged in a second indictment with the filing of false statements with the O.P.A. in order to obtain sugar rations.

"I assume that counsel has had opportunity to read the statements of Long," said Judge Watkins today. "Does counsel desire to use them?"

Desired to Use Them

Joseph L. Delaney, counsel for Forman, stated that he had read the statements and desired to use them in Forman's defense but would like the opportunity to consult with associate counsel to determine just what use of the statements they intend to make.

Long was the principal government witness to testify against Forman, and the court held that his testimony on the witness stand was at variance with statements Long had made, prior to the trial, to government agencies and before the Federal Grand Jury, which returned the indictments in January, 1946.

"I want to be fair to both sides in this matter," said Judge Watkins. "The government has not used the statements in any way and if the defense decides to use them I think it would be fair to let the government use them also."

Delaney Asks Questions

Delaney asked the court a series of questions relating to the partial use by the defense of the statements and the court ruled that if the statements were used at all; he would permit Frederick H. Block, assistant United States attorney, to read the full statements to the jury.

"That is the only fair thing to do, if you open up the matter," Judge Watkins said. "The only fair thing to do is to let the jury have the whole picture—after all, our purpose is to ascertain the truth and the whole truth. If you read portions of them, the government is entitled to read all of the statements."

The court ruled, however, that part of the statements, unrelated to the indictment being tried and containing evidence which is to be used by the government in the prosecution of other cases would not be made available to either side in the present trial.

Refuses Request

Block refused a request by Gregory F. Noonan, attorney for Gottfried, to concede that the Pure Rock Corporation does not currently owe the O.P.A. any sugar. Noonan said that the corporation's sugar supply was reduced, partially eliminated and in 1944, cut off entirely by the O.P.A. until an alleged overage had been paid back, in accordance with O.P.A. regulations. He said that the overage was paid back,

Dozen Meter Stanchions Are Tampered With Downtown

Store Leases Site; To Make Changes

Broadway Mayfair to Move to Building at 664 Broadway

Another central Broadway business change will be made about May 1 when The Broadway Mayfair, now located at 638 Broadway, will open a large and modern store in the building owned by Anthony G. Saccoman at the corner of Broadway and Downs street. The building was formerly occupied by the Detroit Auto Supply Company.

Mrs. A. J. Cordeau, owner of The Broadway Mayfair and The Mayfair at 316 Wall street, has leased from Mr. Saccoman for a number of years the store property at 664 Broadway. Plans have been made to modernize the store and a new up-to-date front will be installed.

When the new store is opened Mrs. Cordeau will enlarge the line of merchandise carried by The Broadway Mayfair to include a full line of women's dresses, infant's goods, rain wear and gifts. Prior to opening, the interior of the store as well as the display windows will be altered and it is planned to place a new design corner show window in the store. Alterations will be started April 1.

The Mayfair at 316 Wall street has been operated for several years by Mrs. Cordeau and will be continued as in the past.. The Broadway Mayfair store was opened some time ago and has proven so successful that it has become necessary to secure larger quarters. Mrs. Cordeau stated that the Broadway store was originally opened as an experiment but has worked out so well that it has been decided to expand the business by securing additional space and adding the new lines of merchandise. The new store has a large frontage on Broadway and extends back some 75 feet along Downs street.

Mr. Saccoman intends to make alterations to the apartments on the upper floors of the building.

Mr. Saccoman purchased the building about a year ago. It was formerly known as the Hutton building.

For some time the store has been occupied by the Detroit Auto Supply Company, dealers in automobile parts and supplies. The Detroit Auto Supply Company moved this week to the building located

Plumber Says Rondout Merchants Think Meters Will Confuse

A prediction that Kingston's parking meters will cause confusion came from the downtown sector today as the police announced a move to protect the meter stanchions already installed following the report that 12 had been tampered with.

Police Chief Ernest A. Boss said this morning that special patrolman Royal Mich had been assigned ahead of schedule to the downtown area after it was learned that apparent attempts had been made to remove stanchions from the fresh concrete in which they are bedded.

The special officer was not due to go on duty until next Sunday the police chief reported, but he was called in last night when the meter bases were reported damaged. He was assigned specifically to guard the stanchions and to assist the regular patrolman on the downtown beat.

Britain Battles Spreading Floods; Position 'Desperate'

By JACK SMITH

London, March 20 (AP)—Thousands of soldiers, civilians, police and German war prisoners fought a losing battle today to hold back overflowing rivers that already had spread destruction and misery through scores of towns and villages. Aid was on the way to stricken communities.

Two army amphibians sped toward the mining vilage of Bentley near Doncaster in northern England, where a telegraphed SOS said last night 1,000 persons had been trapped without food for more than 24 hours.

"Position desperate," E. Whitley, chairman of the Bentley urban district council, wired Evelyn Walkden, member of Parliament for the area. Whitley said small boats could not get through churning waters of the Don river surrounding the town and added: "Power-driven boats essential for food distribution and evacuation of people." Walkden arranged for army help.

The amphibians were not expected to reach the town until late today.

Meanwhile, Doncaster police planned another attempt to take food in by rowboat.

In the Thames valley, two villages were to be evacuated, and police delivered coal in rowboats to marooned invalids at Caversham.

Hundreds of fresh troops and more convoys of equipment and material were rushed to Ely in the marshy eastern Fenland region to fight widening breaches in the banks of the Great Ouse river.

Rivers throughout the industrial midlands were over their banks

Fort Dearborn's Survivors Acclaim Ship's Radio Man

San Francisco, March 20 (AP)—A one-armed radio operator who finally ground out a prayerful distress signal on a makeshift set after four attempts had failed was acclaimed a hero today by 10 survivors of the broken tanker Fort Dearborn.

While the navy continued to search for 12 or 13 more crew members still missing, the 10 survivors who reached San Francisco yesterday told how their ship snapped apart just after midnight March 12 during a storm and cast them adrift on the bow section for 50 hours.

Interviewed aboard the liner General W. H. Gordon, one of the rescue vessels, they all credited "Sparks"—Radioman Henry F. Wiehr of Los Angeles—with saving their lives.

Wiehr, despite the handicap of only one arm and smashed glasses, sought vainly to transmit an SOS with broken, water-soaked equipment, and finally, with the help of the chief steward, rigged an emergency set in the charthouse.

The weak SOS was picked up by the S.S. John Foster nine hours after the Fort Dearborn broke, and was relayed to the American President Liner General Gordon which was closer to the wreck scene. The General Gordon steamed 300 miles through heavy seas and reached the drifting bow section in 16 hours.

Two of the Gordon's lifeboats were smashed and one, eight-man crew nearly lost in the initial rescue attempts before the survivors were picked up by a motor launch from a second rescue ship, the freighter St. John Victory. They later were transferred to the Gordon.

Wiehr, told of the nightmarish

No End in Sight For Debates on Anti-Portal Laws

Washington, March 20 (AP)—Senate debate on anti-portal pay legislation rolled into its fifth day today—and neither Republicans nor Democrats ventured to guarantee when it would end.

Disappointed G. O. P. leaders, striving to clear the decks for other important business, expressed hope the measure to wipe out portal suits would come up for a vote by nightfall. But they and the Democrats kept their fingers crossed.

Senator Wherry (Neb.), the Republican whip, told reporters he understood that Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky.), planned to speak "at some length" on the bill.

Others on the list—some for the second or third time—are Senators Cooper (R.-Ky.), Eastland (D.-Miss.), Donnell (R.-Mo.), McCarran (D.-Nev.), and McGrath (D.-R.I.).

When the portal bill is out of the way, the debate on confirmation of David E. Lilienthal as Atomic Energy Commission chairman is scheduled to start.

Almost equally high priority, however, has been accorded legislation providing for United States participation in the international refugee organization.

After ten and one-half hours of portal bill debate yesterday—from noon to 10:30 p. m.—the Senate had acted on only two amendments.

It adopted by voice vote a proposal by Wherry permitting employers to offer a "good faith" defense against pending as well as future back-wage claims. This means that where employers rely on a ruling of the wage-hour administrator they are excused from back-pay liability.

The other proposed change in the committee bill, offered by Senator Holland (D.-Fla.), was rejected on a roll call vote, 40 to 23. It would have permitted one-year statutes of limitations in effect in Florida and six other states to govern portal actions filed in those states. The committee bill proposes a nationwide time limit of two years, after the work was done, on the filing of qualified suits.

The milk of sheep and goats was extensively used for drinking and for cheese in ancient Rome.

Utah Coal Mines Will Give Resin As Big By-Product

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

New York, March 20 (AP)—Utah's bituminous coal mines are about to produce resin from trees of three hundred million years ago to compete with the resin industry of the south.

Utah's resins are no longer in trees, but in the coal that was pine forests when the earth was much younger. The processes for recovery and the industrial uses were described today to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers by Ernest Klepteko, of Combined Metals Reduction Company, Stockton, Utah.

The Utah resins, instead of turning into coal with the rest of the tree, or being washed out during the long ages, lie in thin sheets in seams in the coal. The resin sheets are from an eighth of an inch to three-eighths.

Their colors are deep blood red to Lemon yellow, with some almost black and others colorless. They are good for varnishes where electrical resistance is needed, printing inks, waterproofing synthetic rubbers and rubber cements.

During the shortages of the late war, the work of developing methods to recover the ancient resins was rushed as a military production measure. Mr. Klepetko said that the processes have been completed, including a resin refinery under construction at Bauer.

The resins are recovered after coal has been crushed and refined. They are byproducts. They are collected by floating them out of the other materials after the crushing.

Utah Coal Mines Will Give Resin As Big By-Product

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

New York, March 20 (AP)—Utah's bituminous coal mines are about to produce resin from trees of three hundred million years ago to compete with the resin industry of the south.

Utah's resins are no longer in trees, but in the coal that was pine forests when the earth was much younger. The processes for recovery and the industrial uses were described today to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers by Ernest Klepteko, of Combined Metals Reduction Company, Stockton, Utah.

The Utah resins, instead of turning into coal with the rest of the tree, or being washed out during the long ages, lie in thin sheets in seams in the coal. The resin sheets are from an eighth of an inch to three-eighths.

Their colors are deep blood red to Lemon yellow, with some almost black and others colorless. They are good for varnishes where electrical resistance is needed, printing inks, waterproofing, synthetic rubbers and rubber cements.

During the shortages of the late war, the work of developing methods to recover the ancient resins was rushed as a military production measure. Mr. Klepetko said that the processes have been completed, including a resin refinery under construction at Bauer.

The resins are recovered after coal has been crushed and refined. They are byproducts. They are collected by floating them out of the other materials after the crushing.

LOST ART OF WALKING

Almost any day now the hiking clubs will start up again. In these are people of varying backgrounds and interests brought together by a knowledge of what legs are for. Every big city has them, and some smaller communities. They meet at the end of some car line, walk what seems an amazing distance in this age of the auto, to some designated spot where they picnic—and then walk back. They not only benefit their bodies by this lost art of walking. They help their inner beings, for many of them are lonely individuals. They have come from country towns where they used to walk—to church, to the grocery store, to a neighbor's. It's been difficult to get acquainted in the big impersonal city. The walking club starts friendships. Sometimes the walkers rise, on holidays and Sundays, extra early and start out for a bird walk. They go to a wide stretch of parkland, or to the country. Some one who has made a study of bird life, leads them.

People don't need to join a walking club, to walk. But they should do more walking. The automobile is a wonderful blessing. Yet it's being depended on so generally that the human body suffers. Walking is the best kind of exercise, physically and mentally.

What is more annoying, and at the same time more reassuring, than a hot spring sun pouring through the window onto a fellow's neck when he has copy to write.

LOW PRICE, HIGH PROFIT

Many farm implements will be reduced in price this spring, say announcements from the International Harvester Company. Officials explained that the move was due not to consumer resistance to high prices or to competition, but to the company's desire to meet its social responsibility by lowering prices of goods the people want. They add that the cut, which will save farmers 20 million dollars a year, was inspired to some extent by Ford Motor Company's price reduction.

This is courageous and sound business leadership. Too many products are beyond the reach of the average American's pocketbook. Policies such as these of the farm machinery and motor car companies will help stop the spiral of climbing prices as reflected in wages, food and housing. When prices are brought within reach of great numbers of buyers, quantity sales become established. Savings result to the consumer. Also, because of increased volume, greater profits to manufacturers are eventually forthcoming.

The Japanese are said to be planning a church in Tokyo in honor of General MacArthur. It's rather a new idea, but there may be something in it.

This generation seems to master almost every human problem except balancing budgets.

RETAILERS ALSO WORRIED

The consumer is not alone in worrying about high prices. The manufacturer and merchant also are definitely worried. Their interest is plain enough. Consumer resistance is strong and it is increasing. When people think prices are too high, they go without or purchase cheaper substitutes. Markets decline and goods languish on store shelves.

Local retailers are devoting intense attention to this problem. They are going to bat with manufacturers, seeking ways and means to produce better goods for less money. The retailers are turning skeptical eyes on offered merchandise which may be over-priced or of less desirable quality.

Many stores also are cutting overhead in every way possible. Most of the savings find their way, directly or indirectly, into the pockets of the consumer. Prices are brought down or price increases that would otherwise be unavoidable are prevented.

Competition, to repeat an old truism, is the certain guarantee that the consumer will get the best break possible when he buys food, clothing, household appliances or anything else. Stores compete and the prices find the lowest level which is consistent with conditions.

'These Days'

QUEER NOTIONS

My friend, George Stringfellow, is a business man who fusses over civic questions. He devotes himself to Kiwanis and to Conferences of Catholics, Jews, and Protestants and various good will organizations. I, myself, keep away from most of the "toleration" shows because I do not believe that tolerance or good will or love can be achieved by propaganda or coercion.

Sometime ago, George, in his capacity as Chairman of the Kiwanis Committee of Public Affairs for the United States, wrote a piece entitled "We Need a Paul Revere," in which he lambasted the Communists and announced that "Our fundamental liberties are at stake," which is a fairly mild statement of the case. President Truman said it stronger and better in his message to Congress on Greece. But along came one, Henry I. Meyer, also of Kiwanis, in Peekskill, New York, and he denounced Brother Stringfellow for his Paul Revere piece and makes this statement:

". . . The Communist ideology never has had a strong appeal for any large number of American citizens. It never has made any great inroads on our political thinking."

Brother Meyer then goes off on the usual claptrap about Bundists, Silver Shirts and such nuts who amount to nothing to show that the Communists are unimportant, and he ends his diatribe:

". . . When Paul Revere rides again he need not cry, 'The Communists are coming.' He had better shout, 'The Fascists are here.'"

So Brother Stringfellow writes Brother Meyer a letter which includes the following paragraph:

"Would you mind giving me your definition of a Fascist and your definition of a Communist, and then outline how they differ and where and why the Fascists are more prevalent in this country than the Communists?"

I thought that a knockout because anybody who can tell the difference in philosophy or method or objective between a Communist and a Fascist is a better man than Stalin, as George Marshall told Molotov when he bawled him out for turning Nazis into Bolsheviks in the Russian zone in Germany.

That upset Brother Henry I. Meyer no end. He wrote a long letter in which he explains all things. For instance, he says:

"In a purely Communistic state the individual produces services and goods according to his ability and receives in return, services and goods according to his needs. Unlike a capitalistic state, the individual may not gain for himself an accumulation of goods in excess of his personal needs. This requires a rigidly planned economy under government supervision in order to keep in delicate balance the production and distribution of goods. . . ."

I don't know what happens in a "purely Communistic state," but none of this has anything to do with the principal existing Communist state where wages are paid according to production, and goods and services, if any, are sold by cash payments.

Further he says:

"There is nothing inherent in the Communist philosophy which prevents democratic political methods or which calls for a militaristic and imperialistic policy. It does not call for a secret police force or the ruthless suppression of its citizens. In these respects Russia has diverted from Communist principles. The ruling clique has borrowed liberally from Fascist technics in order to maintain itself in power. . . ."

Well, that is O.K. Communism, as practiced in Soviet Russia, is the same as Fascism, as it was practiced in Nazi Germany, only more so. But Dr. Meyer says: "Russia today is a conglomeration of Communist theory and Fascist practice," which is an all right statement with me, except that the learned gentleman wants us, from that point on, to ghost-fight the dead Fascists and Nazis and their small crackpots in this country and to let Russia and the American Communists revert to their purity. For the remainder of his letter is a ferocious attack on the American intolerant ones of whom he is wholly intolerant. He wants us to exterminate Pegler but he says, "I believe, however, that since we collaborated in war (with Soviet Russia) so we can collaborate in peace."

Oh! Why didn't Harry Truman hire this guy to fix things up so that we could do some of the aforesaid collaborating without spending hundreds of millions of our taxes because the Russians won't play?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

By James W. Barton, M. D.

MENTAL ILLNESS

As we think of the work of coal miners, which is away from the beneficial effects of sunlight, we are surprised that they appear to have the same degree of physical health as others who work above ground. As we think of their mental and emotional health, and remember their daily routine with its "sameness" we naturally wonder how they stand up mentally and emotionally. It is interesting then to get some authoritative information in this matter.

In the Journal of Mental Science, London, England, Drs. F. Post and M. B. Lond report observations on 100 men employed in underground work in the mining industry who were treated at Jordon Nerve Hospital.

Anxious depressive psychoneurosis — depression obsession, anxiety, fear of mental disease — was observed in 30 patients, depressive psychosis (imagining at times a mental disease to be present) in 18, persistent psychoneurosis in 14, actual change in brain structure in 12, double personality and day dreaming in 11, hysteria in 10 and physical disease accompanied by mental and emotional symptoms in 5.

In more than half of the miners suffering from mental and emotional illness, their occupation had nothing to do with their symptoms, and only few men broke down on account of the unpleasant and dangerous nature of underground work alone. In other words their mental symptoms would have occurred no matter what their occupation, as they had the type of personality that is more readily affected by nervousness and emotionalism, so hence their symptoms.

In fact Drs. Post and Lond believe the very nature of their work where, with others, they share common dangers, helps to steady or stabilize their personality so that they are not affected to the extent we would expect. "In the face of danger miners show a fine sense of comradeship." Without this sense of comradeship and the sharing of common dangers, there are conditions about mining that would make them likely to develop mental symptoms.

Neurosis

Neurosis—believing you have a physical ailment when none exists—is becoming increasingly common. Send today for Dr. Barton's informative booklet entitled "Neurosis." AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

As I was saying, Frank Murphy of our Supreme Court, really did go into his act in his separate opinion in the Harry Bridges deportation case. Boy, did he give us "mammy!"

You know what he said? You could better play it or a horn than read it.

The majority opinion was raw enough and it wasn't such a big majority at that because Jackson took a walk and Roberts and Frankfurter dissented with the late Chief Justice Stone. But they didn't say Congress had no constitutional right to pass a law to deport alien members of organizations which advocate the violent overthrow of our government, and Murphy wanted to say that and he did.

"The record in this case," he said to start off, "will stand forever as a monument of man's intolerance of man. Seldom in the history of this nation has there been such a concentrated and relentless crusade to deport an individual because he dared to exercise the freedom that belongs to him as a human being and that is guaranteed to him by the Constitution." He said there was not the slightest evidence to show that the Communist party "seriously and imminently threaten(s) to uproot the government by force or violence."

Reading that and having read Earl Browder and Stalin you wonder when the guy is going to cut out the clowning and get serious.

I suppose when he says the threat isn't serious or imminent he means you can't put a fellow in jail or under a peace bond for threatening to kill you but have to wait until he outs with his gun and draws a bead. Wait until all the preparation work is done and the strikes and riots and vandalism have put us on our back and then, when they actually come at us with atom bombs, call out the police. Just what Murphy would hold in the actual presence of such hostilities I try to conjecture from his bashfulness in the violent anarchy of the C.I.O. under Communist direction in Michigan when he was governor.

Old Red ran an awful fever against "powerful economic and social forces" which for more than a decade had combined with "public and private agencies" to deport Harry Bridges, the boss of the ports on our Pacific coast. The idea seemed to be that "powerful" forces, though patriotic and legal in their composition and methods, have no right to try to make the government enforce the law against an alien, which is all that they did in this case. They thought Bridges was a Communist and they certainly weren't just picking on a fellow without any justification at all because two federal courts, a noted examiner and the attorney-general all agreed with them. Weak forces couldn't have done this and, if it comes to a question of "power," well Bridges had an organization behind him that was even stronger. That really was an organization. You ought to see some of the campaign literature that was turned out on his behalf.

Louis Francis Budenz, the backslid bolo who used to be managing editor of the Daily Worker in New York and as Red as a fire engine before he got religion and came up howling "Hallelujah", writes in his book, "This Is My Story," that in 1940 and 1941, "in the battle around Harry Bridges, the Communists were enabled to enroll thousands of people who were completely ignorant of the Red manipulation of their thinking. Why do I know? Because I was very close to the publicity end of Bridges' defense as the articles in the Daily Worker will show."

You can have my undivided share of Budenz.

But don't get wrought up about Murphy. We can't get rid of him unless Truman might bait him off the court with some enticement as Roosevelt did with Jimmy Byrnes and you only run up your blood pressure when you holler and yell and kick the cat over something that you just can't do anything about.

"This opposition," Red wrote, "has been as persistent as it has been undaunted by temporary setbacks." See the kind of guy you are dealing with, and him on the Supreme Court, at that? Whats' wrong with persistency and dauntlessness anyway? That army of ours now was a little on the persistent and dauntless side and we thought pretty well of them for that, and a dam good thing for Red Murphy they were, too, or those Nazis would have given them what we gave their boss ideologians.

And what is the duty of "public agencies" anyway, if not to try to have the law on people who seem to deserve some treatment, as Bridges certainly seemed to? The cops are a public agency and if they get an idea that some fellow is fixing to blow a safe and their evidence is good enough to stand up all the way to the Supreme Court, I think it would be very nice to put him under glass and give him a trial. But Red, he doesn't think so. Well, difference of opinion, I guess.

Then he says, "industrial and farming organizations, veterans' groups and city police departments all joined in an unremitting effort to deport him." I fall off the sled on that turn. What's wrong with that? Where is the law that says industrial and farming organizations mustn't engage in works which they deem to be patriotic? Aren't veterans American citizens and how come they are louses if they organize to protect the good old sacred heritage but Communists can organize to destroy it provided they aim to blow it up some day but not right now because then the danger would be "imminent" as our friend says? I am not saying Bridges was fixing to blow it up. I am saying the Communists are and as soon as they can, and if that time isn't soon that isn't their fault.

I think I might tell you some more about this decision and other decisions of the Federal Courts lately which not only make it impossible to protect ourselves from Communists within our country, provided they say they aren't Communists, but make it tough for anyone outside of Congress, where they have congressional immunity, to spot a Communist and warn the public, provided he says he isn't. We are in a fix, I tell you.

Bridges is now a citizen of our fair country. He is not a Communist and never was one, whatever you or Judge Sears, who heard the evidence or the Federal District Court and the Court of Appeals and the attorney general thought. You know what they thought. But the Supreme Court said he wasn't, so he isn't, and that is legal and binding and final.

Citizens Are Described as Having Lost Fundamental Rights Under Wagner Act

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 20—Just how far compulsion and coercion is to be the vehicle by which a governmental agency shall force employers to agree with unions against their own better judgment is the real issue which Congress faces in repairing the mischief done to the American economic system by the National Labor Relations Board under the Wagner Act in the last ten years.

The fair-minded American often is lulled by such innocent phrases as "collective bargaining" into thinking that all the controversy about the Wagner Act revolves around a refusal to let employes form a union. He would be surprised if he could read the thousands of capricious and arbitrary interpretations rendered by the Labor Board that deprive citizens of their fundamental rights.

No totalitarian government, in issuing its decrees, has offered any more specious reasoning than lies behind the distortion of the powers granted by Congress under the Wagner Act. This is illustrated by the Labor Board's open defense of its arbitrary decisions in the lengthy document it submitted recently to the Senate Labor Committee.

Although the Wagner Law does not compel the employer or the union to agree on anything when they sit down to confer and negotiate, the Labor Board says, in effect, that the employer must agree or face a charge of unfair labor practice for "refusal to bargain."

The board denies that in all cases it requires the employer to bargain and leaves the bewildered citizen to find out just when he may expect such compulsion and when he may escape from it. The board has insisted that an employer must bargain in good faith but that a union need not do so. The board has recently issued a decision implying, in effect, that a union must bargain in good faith, but there is no telling when there will be an other change. Just now while it is under fire, the Labor Board's decisions are like railroad timetables—subject to change without notice.

There is nothing in the law which makes the reaching of an agreement compulsory nor does it place on the employer the obligation to bargain "in good faith," but the Labor Board has read into the law such an obligation.

"This does not mean," says the Board in its statement to the Senate committee, "as is frequently and carelessly asserted, that an employer must make concessions. A counterproposal and a concession are vastly different things; wholly valid counterproposals may merely state existing conditions. The failure to make a counterproposal (as distinguished from a concession) may be evidence of bad faith—but that is all. And we have found in many cases that an employer has bargained in good faith even though he made no counterproposals, let alone concessions."

What the foregoing means is that a government agency seeks to apply a "mechanical test to a state of mind" and that the rights of a citizen who is an employer to decide what he can or cannot grant in a labor union negotiation are limited to what this or some future labor board may decide is a "counterproposal" or a "concession."

When a member of Congress proposes to amend the Wagner law on the basis that, if collective bargaining means an obligation to negotiate in good faith such an obligation should apply equally to the labor unions, the labor board comes forth with this piece of disingenuous advice to Congress.

"In all candor we must express a doubt whether, in practice, such an amendment would prove particularly useful to the employers who urge it, because it merely imposes upon labor organizations the obligation to perform the very function they were created to perform."

What the labor board fails to see is that its own decisions have been used as a means of blackmailing small employers into submission by union threats to raise a question of "refusal to bargain" and few employers can afford to add to their expenses the costs of litigating matters before the labor board.

The law, of course, should not impose any obligation that could even remotely be construed as compelling an agreement. What is needed is an amendment prohibiting the labor board from compelling either an employer or a union to be coerced into an agreement through the use of threats by either party to bring charges of "unfair labor practices" before the labor board once the union has been recognized and negotiations have begun.

WHAT IT MEANS

Farm Weather Outlook

By OVID A. MARTIN

Washington—The nation has come through a seven-year cycle of exceptionally good croop and food production weather. Does it face a similar cycle of poor weather? And food shortages?

These questions have been raised recently by old-time weather prophets who believe that the climate undergoes a change every seven years. Favored as the country was by good weather during the war, when high food production was needed, some amateur forecasters warn that a plague of droughts is due.

Next to crop prices, nothing is more important to the farmer's business than the weather. It often has a strong influence on prices he gets and prices consumers pay. One of the first things the farmer is likely to do when he gets up in the morning is to scan the sky, note the direction of the wind, and plan his day's work accordingly.

Can't Prove or Disprove It

Weather scientists say that facts known today neither definitely demonstrate nor disprove the existence of any real weather cycle. There is no evidence that 1947 will be the first of seven lean, hungry years.

In fact, the agriculture department has climbed out on a limb with a forecast of another good production season.

Farm production this year can be more than merely guessed at, even this early in the season, the department says. It explains that many factors already known will have a bearing on production this year. Looking back over the past seven bountiful years, the department by no means gives the weather major credit.

Unusually favorable weather in the past seven crop years has been responsible," the agency says, "for only about one-fourth of the big gains in yields over the 1923-'32 pre-drought levels."

Listing Favorable Factors

Known factors which the department says indicates favorable yields this year include:

1. Weather conditions during the past fall and winter have been favorable. Because last year's crop were harvested early, fields could be prepared for fall and spring planting.

2. Quality seeds are in ample supply.

3. More commercial fertilizers and new farm machinery will be available.

4 Soil moisture is generally adequate.

5. The supply of irrigation water in the West is promising.

6. The supply of farm labor is expected to be much larger than during the war.

7. Last, but not least, farm products continue in strong demand to give the farmer an incentive to produce.

Taking all these factors into account and assuming average growing conditions, the department says 1947 crop yields per acre seem likely to average about 30 per cent higher than during the 1923-'32 pre-drought period. This would be the fourth highest of record, having been exceeded only in 1942, 1944, and 1946.

While optimistic with regard to production this year, the department adds this qualification:

"If the weather turns out better than usual, aggregate yields per acre could go even higher. On the other hand, bad breaks in the weather or severe outbreaks of insects and disease could result in a poorer outturn than now foreseen.

Counter Factors at Work

"But," the agency adds, "serious drawbacks rarely strike all parts of the nation in any one growing season."

The farmer has lots of outside help in his efforts to thwart bad weather.

The plant breeder who develops new and better varieties, the machinery manufacturer who designs more efficient equipment, the chemist who finds new uses for farm products and better fertilizers, the agricultural engineer who works out better ways to make the good earth produce, and many more, all help the farmer to produce more per acre.

The department has gone as far as forecasting probable yields per acre of many individual crops.

Less Corn Expected

The probable yield of corn—the raw material for the nation's supplies—is given at 34 bushels per acre. While this is nearly four bushels less than last year, it nevertheless was previously exceeded only in 1942.

This forecast makes another three-billion bushel corn crop seem very likely. Production before the war averaged less than 2,700,000,000 bushels.

A wheat yield of 17 bushels per acre and a record production of more than 1,200,000,000 bushels seems reasonable to expect, the department says.

Production per bearing acre of fruit reached record proportions last year. The department says a repetition of this big performance can hardly be expected this year because of the drain on the vitality of trees and vines.

Enough Potatoes, Thanks

Nor does the department expect a repetition of last year's record yield of 184 bushels of potatoes to the acre. This yield produced a 100,000,000-bushel surplus that is costing the government upwards of $80,000,000 in carrying out price guarantees to growers. The 1947 forecast is 155 bushels per acre, which is still away above average.

The 1947 prospective yields of other crops compared with last year and the 1923-'32 average, respectively, include:

Oats 34 bushels this year, 34.6 last and 30.2 for the 1923-'32 average.

Barley 25, 25.1 and 22.6.

Tame hay 1.4 tons, 1.48 and 1.28.

Cotton 250 pounds, 231 and 170.

Soybeans 19 bushels, 20.5 and 12.9.

Dry beans 900 pounds, 977 and 667.

Tobacco 1,075 pounds, 1,153 and 770.

Health for All

Allergies

To many of us, "allergic" is a very handy word. We use it to express our dislike for certain foods, colors or even people. To medical men, "allergy" is a general term indicating various forms of hypersensitiveness, in man and animals, to various substances.

You probably know someone who breaks out with hives after eating strawberries, or sneezes every time a cat walks into the room. You may know people who avoid eggs in any form because they would get sick if they ate them. The rest of us may be scornful of these "whims", but it is a fact that some people are oversensitive to substances which to the majority are harmless.

The irritant may be something in the air we breathe, such as dust or pollen. It may be something we touch, such as poison ivy or certain chemical substances. It may be something we eat, specific foods or drugs. Most cases of asthma are caused by allergies, and many are cured when doctor and patient cooperate to find the offending agent.

How is a specific allergy discovered? In much the same way that the existence of allergies was first made known. Eighty years ago an English doctor who suffered from a strange fever discovered that when he rubbed timothy grass pollen into a cut in his hand a red, itching wheal appeared. When he applied the pollen to his nose he had a severe attack of what we call hay fever. He concluded that he was hypersensitive to pollens.

Today, if a doctor suspects you are suffering from an allergy he makes skin tests to determine to which things you are sensitive. Since there are so many things to which you could be allergic, he first asks a series of questions. If he learns that you feel ill every time you clean house, he makes a skin test with house dust or possibly with the dander of one of your house pets. If the skin tests show that you are hypersensitive to house dust, the doctor can reduce your sensitivity to it. He begins by injecting a weak solution of an extract of house dust. He gradually increases the strength of the injection until you become "desensitized" or are no longer allergic. The desensitizing agent is called an allergen. If your allergy had been something easier to avoid, and not too essential as, for instance, clams, the problem would be simpler. The doctor would advise you not to eat clams.

If the skin tests were infallible, allergies would be less of a problem. Unfortunately they are not. Some people with an allergy do not react positively to a skin test, some without an allergy do. These cases must be solved by trial and error.

Doctors now believe that the symptoms of some infectious diseases, undulant fever, for instance, are examples of bacterial allergy—hypersensitivity to certain bacteria. They are experimenting with methods of treatment, and hope to discover that some bacterial diseases can be treated successfully by desensitization with allergens.

In the next article, the role of X-ray in diagnosing early tuberculosis will be discussed.

Needs a Theatre

Tulare, Calif., (AP)—When the Lippert Construction Co., started an $80,000 outdoor theatre, a 10-year-old neighbor boy began nailing steps to the only tall tree near the walls. His tree house is nearly finished, but he'll see no free shows. The civilian production administration called the theatre non-essential and stopped the construction.

LOST ART OF WALKING

Almost any day now the hiking clubs will start up again. In these are people of varying backgrounds and interests brought together by a knowledge of what legs are for. Every big city has them, and some smaller communities. They meet at the end of some car line, walk what seems an amazing distance in this age of the auto, to some designated spot where they picnic—and then walk back. They not only benefit their bodies by this lost art of walking. They help their inner beings, for many of them are lonely individuals. They have come from country towns where they used to walk—to church, to the grocery store, to a neighbor's. It's been difficult to get acquainted in the big impersonal city. The walking club starts friendships. Sometimes the walkers rise, on holidays and Sundays, extra early and start out for a bird walk. They go to a wide stretch of parkland, or to the country. Some one who has made a study of bird life, leads them.

People don't need to join a walking club, to walk. But they should do more walking. The automobile is a wonderful blessing. Yet it's being depended on so generally that the human body suffers. Walking is the best kind of exercise, physically and mentally.

What is more annoying, and at the same time more reassuring, than a hot spring sun pouring through the window onto a fellow's neck when he has copy to write.

LOW PRICE, HIGH PROFIT

Many farm implements will be reduced in price this spring, say announcements from the International Harvester Company. Officials explained that the move was due not to consumer resistance to high prices or to competition, but to the company's desire to meet its social responsibility by lowering prices of goods the people want. They add that the cut, which will save farmers 20 million dollars a year, was inspired to some extent by Ford Motor Company's price reduction.

This is courageous and sound business leadership. Too many products are beyond the reach of the average American's pocketbook. Policies such as these of the farm machinery and motor car companies will help stop the spiral of climbing prices as reflected in wages, food and housing. When prices are brought within reach of great numbers of buyers, quantity sales become established. Savings result to the consumer. Also, because of increased volume, greater profits to manufacturers are eventually forthcoming.

The Japanese are said to be planning a church in Tokyo in honor of General MacArthur. It's rather a new idea, but there may be something in it.

This generation seems to master almost every human problem except balancing budgets.

RETAILERS ALSO WORRIED

The consumer is not alone in worrying about high prices. The manufacturer and merchant also are definitely worried. Their interest is plain enough. Consumer resistance is strong and it is increasing. When people think prices are too high, they go without or purchase cheaper substitutes. Markets decline and goods languish on store shelves.

Local retailers are devoting intense attention to this problem. They are going to bat with manufacturers, seeking ways and means to produce better goods for less money. The retailers are turning skeptical eyes on offered merchandise which may be over-priced or of less desirable quality.

Many stores also are cutting overhead in every way possible. Most of the savings find their way, directly or indirectly, into the pockets of the consumer. Prices are brought down or price increases that would otherwise be unavoidable are prevented.

Competition, to repeat an old truism, is the certain guarantee that the consumer will get the best break possible when he buys food, clothing, household appliances or anything else. Stores compete and the prices find the lowest level which is consistent with conditions.

'These Days'

QUEER NOTIONS

My friend, George Stringfellow, is a business man who fusses over civic questions. He devotes himself to Kiwanis and to Conferences of Catholics, Jews, and Protestants and various good will organizations. I, myself, keep away from most of the "toleration" shows because I do not believe that tolerance or good will or love can be achieved by propaganda or coercion.

Sometime ago, George, in his capacity as Chairman of the Kiwanis Committee of Public Affairs for the United States, wrote a piece entitled "We Need a Paul Revere," in which he lambasted the Communists and announced that "Our fundamental liberties are at stake," which is a fairly mild statement of the case. President Truman said it stronger and better in his message to Congress on Greece. But along came one, Henry I. Meyer, also of Kiwanis, in Peekskill, New York, and he denounced Brother Stringfellow for his Paul Revere piece and makes this statement:

". . . The Communist ideology never has had a strong appeal for any large number of American citizens. It never has made any great inroads on our political thinking."

Brother Meyer then goes off on the usual claptrap about Bundists, Silver Shirts and such nuts who amount to nothing to show that the Communists are unimportant, and he ends his diatribe:

". . . When Paul Revere rides again he need not cry, 'The Communists are coming.' He had better shout, 'The Fascists are here.'"

So Brother Stringfellow writes Brother Meyer a letter which includes the following paragraph:

"Would you mind giving me your definition of a Fascist and your definition of a Communist, and then outline how they differ and where and why the Fascists are more prevalent in this country than the Communists?"

I thought that a knockout because anybody who can tell the difference in philosophy or method or objective between a Communist and a Fascist is a better man than Stalin, as George Marshall told Molotov when he bawled him out for turning Nazis into Bolsheviks in the Russian zone in Germany.

That upset Brother Henry I. Meyer no end. He wrote a long letter in which he explains all things. For instance, he says:

"In a purely Communistic state the individual produces services and goods according to his ability and receives in return, services and goods according to his needs. Unlike a capitalistic state, the individual may not gain for himself an accumulation of goods in excess of his personal needs. This requires a rigidly planned economy under government supervision in order to keep in delicate balance the production and distribution of goods. . . ."

I don't know what happens in a "purely Communistic state," but none of this has anything to do with the principal existing Communist state where wages are paid according to production, and goods and services, if any, are sold by cash payments.

Further he says:

"There is nothing inherent in the Communist philosophy which prevents democratic political methods or which calls for a militaristic and imperialistic policy. It does not call for a secret police force or the ruthless suppression of its citizens. In these respects Russia has diverted from Communist principles. The ruling clique has borrowed liberally from Fascist technics in order to maintain itself in power. . . ."

Well, that is O.K. Communism, as practiced in Soviet Russia, is the same as Fascism, as it was practiced in Nazi Germany, only more so. But Dr. Meyer says: "Russia today is a conglomeration of Communist theory and Fascist practice," which is an all right statement with me, except that the learned gentleman wants us, from that point on, to ghost-fight the dead Fascists and Nazis and their small crackpots in this country and to let Russia and the American Communists revert to their purity. For the remainder of his letter is a ferocious attack on the American intolerant ones of whom he is wholly intolerant. He wants us to exterminate Pegler but he says, "I believe, however, that since we collaborated in war (with Soviet Russia) so we can collaborate in peace."

Oh! Why didn't Harry Truman hire this guy to fix things up so that we could do some of the aforesaid collaborating without spending hundreds of millions of our taxes because the Russians won't play?

THAT BODY OF YOURS

MENTAL ILLNESS

As we think of the work of coal miners, which is away from the beneficial effects of sunlight, we are surprised that they appear to have the same degree of physical health as others who work above ground. As we think of their mental and emotional health, and remember their daily routine with its "sameness" we naturally wonder how they stand up mentally and emotionally. It is interesting then to get some authoritative information in this matter.

In the Journal of Mental Science, London, England, Drs. F. Post and M. B. Lond report observations on 100 men employed in underground work in the mining industry who were treated at Jordon Nerve Hospital.

Anxious depressive psychoneurosis — depression obsession, anxiety, fear of mental disease — was observed in 30 patients, depressive psychosis (imagining at times a mental disease to be present) in 18, persistent psychoneurosis in 14, actual change in brain structure in 12, double personality and day dreaming in 11, hysteria in 10 and physical disease accompanied by mental and emotional symptoms in 5.

In more than half of the miners suffering from mental and emotional illness, their occupation had nothing to do with their symptoms, and only few men broke down on account of the unpleasant and dangerous nature of underground work alone. In other words their mental symptoms would have occurred no matter what their occupation, as they had the type of personality that is more readily affected by nervousness and emotionalism, so hence their symptoms.

In fact Drs. Post and Lond believe the very nature of their work where, with others, they share common dangers, helps to steady or stabilize their personality so that they are not affected to the extent we would expect. "In the face of danger miners show a fine sense of comradeship." Without this sense of comradeship and the sharing of common dangers, there are conditions about mining that would make them likely to develop mental symptoms.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

As I was saying, Frank Murphy of our Supreme Court, really did go into his act in his separate opinion in the Harry Bridges deportation case. Boy, did he give us "mammy!"

You know what he said? You could better play it on a horn than read it.

The majority opinion was raw enough and it wasn't such a big majority at that because Jackson took a walk and Roberts and Frankfurter dissented with the late Chief Justice Stone. But they didn't say Congress had no constitutional right to pass a law to deport alien members of organizations which advocate the violent overthrow of our government, and Murphy wanted to say that and he did.

"The record in this case," he said to start off, "will stand forever as a monument of man's intolerance of man. Seldom in the history of this nation has there been such a concentrated and relentless crusade to deport an individual because he dared to exercise the freedom that belongs to him as a human being and that is guaranteed to him by the Constitution." He said there was not the slightest evidence to show that the Communist party "seriously and imminently threatens to uproot the government by force or violence."

Reading that and having read Earl Browder and Stalin you wonder when the guy is going to cut out the clowning and get serious.

I suppose when he says the threat isn't serious or imminent he means you can't put a fellow in jail or under a peace bond for threatening to kill you but have to wait until he outs with his gun and draws a bead. Wait until all the preparation work is done and the strikes and riots and vandalism have put us on our back and then, when they actually come at us with atom bombs, call out the police. Just what Murphy would hold in the actual presence of such hostilities I try to conjecture from his bashfulness in the violent anarchy of the C.I.O. under Communist direction in Michigan when he was governor.

Old Red ran an awful fever against "powerful economic and social forces" which for more than a decade had combined with "public and private agencies" to deport Harry Bridges, the boss of the ports on our Pacific coast. The idea seemed to be that "powerful" forces, though patriotic and legal in their composition and methods, have no right to try to make the government enforce the law against an alien, which is all that they did in this case. They thought Bridges was a Communist and they certainly weren't just picking on a fellow without any justification at all because two federal courts, a noted examiner and the attorney-general all agreed with them. Weak forces couldn't have done this and, if it comes to a question of "power," well Bridges had an organization behind him that was even stronger. That really was an organization. You ought to see some of the campaign literature that was turned out on his behalf.

Louis Francis Budenz, the backslid bolo who used to be managing editor of the Daily Worker in New York and as Red as a fire engine before he got religion and came up howling "Hallelujah", writes in his book, "This Is My Story," that in 1940 and 1941, "in the battle around Harry Bridges, the Communists were enabled to enroll thousands of people who were completely ignorant of the Red manipulation of their thinking. Why do I know? Because I was very close to the publicity end of Bridges' defense as the articles in the Daily Worker will show."

You can have my undivided share of Budenz.

But don't get wrought up about Murphy. We can't get rid of him unless Truman might bait him off the court with some enticement as Roosevelt did with Jimmy Byrnes and you only run up your blood pressure when you holler and yell and kick the cat over something that you just can't do anything about.

"This opposition," Red wrote, "has been as persistent as it has been undaunted by temporary setbacks." See the kind of guy you are dealing with, and him on the Supreme Court, at that? Whats' wrong with persistency and dauntlessness anyway? That army of ours now was a little on the persistent and dauntless side and we thought pretty well of them for that, and a dam good thing for Red Murphy they were, too, or those Nazis would have given them what we gave their boss ideologians.

And what is the duty of "public agencies" anyway, if not to try to have the law on people who seem to deserve some treatment, as Bridges certainly seemed to? The cops are a public agency and if they get an idea that some fellow is fixing to blow a safe and their evidence is good enough to stand up all the way to the Supreme Court, I think it would be very nice to put him under glass and give him a trial. But Red, he doesn't think so. Well, difference of opinion, I guess.

Then he says, "industrial and farming organizations, veterans' groups and city police departments all joined in an unremitting effort to deport him." I fall off the sled on that turn. What's wrong with that? Where is the law that says industrial and farming organizations mustn't engage in works which they deem to be patriotic? Aren't veterans American citizens and how come they are louses if they organize to protect the good old sacred heritage but Communists can organize to destroy it provided they aim to blow it up some day but not right now because then the danger would be "imminent" as our friend says? I am not saying Bridges was fixing to blow it up. I am saying the Communists are and as soon as they can, and if that time isn't soon that isn't their fault.

I think I might tell you some more about this decision and other decisions of the Federal Courts lately which not only make it impossible to protect ourselves from Communists within our country, provided they say they aren't Communists, but make it tough for anyone outside of Congress, where they have congressional immunity, to spot a Communist and warn the public, provided he says he isn't. We are in a fix, I tell you.

Bridges is now a citizen of our fair country. He is not a Communist and never was one, whatever you or Judge Sears, who heard the evidence or the Federal District Court and the Court of Appeals and the attorney general thought. You know what they thought. But the Supreme Court said he wasn't, so he isn't, and that is legal and binding and final.

Citizens Are Described as Having Lost Fundamental Rights Under Wagner Act

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, March 20—Just how far compulsion and coercion is to be the vehicle by which a governmental agency shall force employers to agree with unions against their own better judgment is the real issue which Congress faces in repairing the mischief done to the American economic system by the National Labor Relations Board under the Wagner Act in the last ten years.

The fair-minded American often is lulled by such innocent phrases as "collective bargaining" into thinking that all the controversy about the Wagner Act revolves around a refusal to let employes form a union. He would be surprised if he could read the thousands of capricious and arbitrary interpretations rendered by the Labor Board that deprive citizens of their fundamental rights.

No totalitarian government, in issuing its decrees, has offered any more specious reasoning than lies behind the distortion of the powers granted by Congress under the Wagner Act. This is illustrated by the Labor Board's open defense of its arbitrary decisions in the lengthy document it submitted recently to the Senate Labor Committee.

Although the Wagner Law does not compel the employer or the union to agree on anything when they sit down to confer and negotiate, the Labor Board says, in effect, that the employer must agree or face a charge of unfair labor practice for "refusal to bargain."

The board denies that in all cases it requires the employer to bargain and leaves the bewildered citizen to find out just when he may expect such compulsion and when he may escape from it. The board has insisted that an employer must bargain in good faith but that a union need not do so. The board has recently issued a decision implying, in effect, that a union must bargain in good faith, but there is no telling when there will be an other change. Just now while it is under fire, the Labor Board's decisions are like railroad timetables—subject to change without notice.

There is nothing in the law which makes the reaching of an agreement compulsory nor does it place on the employer the obligation to bargain "in good faith," but the Labor Board has read into the law such an obligation.

"This does not mean," says the Board in its statement to the Senate committee, "as is frequently and carelessly asserted, that an employer must make concessions. A counterproposal and a concession are vastly different things; wholly valid counterproposals may merely state existing conditions. The failure to make a counterproposal (as distinguished from a concession) may be evidence of bad faith—but that is all. And we have found in many cases that an employer has bargained in good faith even though he made no counterproposals, let alone concessions."

What the foregoing means is that a government agency seeks to apply a "mechanical test to a state of mind" and that the rights of a citizen who is an employer to decide what he can or cannot grant in a labor union negotiation are limited to what this or some future labor board may decide is a "counterproposal" or a "concession."

When a member of Congress proposes to amend the Wagner law on the basis that, if collective bargaining means an obligation to negotiate in good faith such an obligation should apply equally to the labor unions, the labor board comes forth with this piece of disingenuous advice to Congress.

"In all candor we must express a doubt whether, in practice, such an amendment would prove particularly useful to the employers who urge it, because it merely imposes upon labor organizations the obligation to perform the very function they were created to perform."

What the labor board fails to see is that its own decisions have been used as a means of blackmailing small employers into submission by union threats to raise a question of "refusal to bargain" and few employers can afford to add to their expenses the costs of litigating matters before the labor board.

The law, of course, should not impose any obligation that could even remotely be construed as compelling an agreement. What is needed is an amendment prohibiting the labor board from compelling either an employer or a union to be coerced into an agreement through the use of threats by either party to bring charges of "unfair labor practices" before the labor board once the union has been recognized and negotiations have begun.

WHAT IT MEANS

Farm Weather Outlook

By OVID A. MARTIN

Washington—The nation has come through a seven-year cycle of exceptionally good croop and food production weather. Does it face a similar cycle of poor weather? And food shortages?

These questions have been raised recently by old-time weather prophets who believe that the climate undergoes a change every seven years. Favored as the country was by good weather during the war, when high food production was needed, some amateur forecasters warn that a plague of droughts is due.

Next to crop prices, nothing is more important to the farmer's business than the weather. It often has a strong influence on prices he gets and prices consumers pay. One of the first things the farmer is likely to do when he gets up in the morning is to scan the sky, note the direction of the wind, and plan his day's work accordingly.

Can't Prove or Disprove It

Weather scientists say that facts known today neither definitely demonstrate nor disprove the existence of any real weather cycle. There is no evidence that 1947 will be the first of seven lean, hungry years.

In fact, the agriculture department has climbed out on a limb with a forecast of another good production season.

Farm production this year can be more than merely guessed at, even this early in the season, the department says. It explains that many factors already known will have a bearing on production this year. Looking back over the past seven bountiful years, the department by no means gives the weather major credit.

Unusually favorable weather in the past seven crop years has been responsible," the agency says, "for only about one-fourth of the big gains in yields over the 1923-'32 pre-drought levels."

Listing Favorable Factors

Known factors which the department says indicates favorable yields this year include:

1. Weather conditions during the past fall and winter have been favorable. Because last year's crop were harvested early, fields could be prepared for fall and spring planting.

2. Quality seeds are in ample supply.

3. More commercial fertilizers and new farm machinery will be available.

4 Soil moisture is generally adequate.

5. The supply of irrigation water in the West is promising.

6. The supply of farm labor is expected to be much larger than during the war.

7. Last, but not least, farm products continue in strong demand to give the farmer an incentive to produce.

Taking all these factors into account and assuming average growing conditions, the department says 1947 crop yields per acre seem likely to average about 30 per cent higher than during the 1923-'32 pre-drought period. This would be the fourth highest of record, having been exceeded only in 1942, 1944, and 1946.

While optimistic with regard to production this year, the department adds this qualification:

"If the weather turns out better than usual, aggregate yields per acre could go even higher. On the other hand, bad breaks in the weather or severe outbreaks of insects and disease could result in a poorer outturn than now foreseen.

Counter Factors at Work

"But," the agency adds, "serious drawbacks rarely strike all parts of the nation in any one growing season."

The farmer has lots of outside help in his efforts to thwart bad weather.

The plant breeder who develops new and better varieties, the machinery manufacturer who designs more efficient equipment, the chemist who finds new uses for farm products and better fertilizers, the agricultural engineer who works out better ways to make the good earth produce, and many more, all help the farmer to produce more per acre.

The department has gone as far as forecasting probable yields per acre of many individual crops.

Less Corn Expected

The probable yield of corn—the raw material for the nation's supplies—is given at 34 bushels per acre. While this is nearly four bushels less than last year, it nevertheless was previously exceeded only in 1942.

This forecast makes another three-billion bushel corn crop seem very likely. Production before the war averaged less than 2,700,000,000 bushels.

A wheat yield of 17 bushels per acre and a record production of more than 1,200,000,000 bushels seems reasonable to expect, the department says.

Production per bearing acre of fruit reached record proportions last year. The department says a repetition of this big performance can hardly be expected this year because of the drain on the vitality of trees and vines.

Enough Potatoes, Thanks

Nor does the department expect a repetition of last year's record yield of 184 bushels of potatoes to the acre. This yield produced a 100,000,000-bushel surplus that is costing the government upwards of $80,000,000 in carrying out price guarantees to growers. The 1947 forecast is 155 bushels per acre, which is still away above average.

The 1947 prospective yields of other crops compared with last year and the 1923-'32 average, respectively, include:

Oats 34 bushels this year, 34.6 last and 30.2 for the 1923-'32 average.

Barley 25, 25.1 and 22.6.

Tame hay 1.4 tons, 1.48 and 1.28.

Cotton 250 pounds, 231 and 170.

Soybeans 19 bushels, 20.5 and 12.9.

Dry beans 900 pounds, 977 and 667.

Tobacco 1,075 pounds, 1,153 and 770.

Health for All

Allergies

To many of us, "allergic" is a very handy word. We use it to express our dislike for certain foods, colors or even people. To medical men, "allergy" is a general term indicating various forms of hypersensitiveness, in man and animals, to various substances.

You probably know someone who breaks out with hives after eating strawberries, or sneezes every time a cat walks into the room. You may know people who avoid eggs in any form because they would get sick if they ate them. The rest of us may be scornful of these "whims", but it is a fact that some people are over sensitive to substances which to the majority are harmless.

The irritant may be something in the air we breathe, such as dust or pollen. It may be something we touch, such as poison ivy or certain chemical substances. It may be something we eat, specific foods or drugs. Most cases of asthma are caused by allergies, and many are cured when doctor and patient cooperate to find the offending agent.

How is a specific allergy discovered? In much the same way that the existence of allergies was first made known. Eighty years ago an English doctor who suffered from a strange fever discovered that when he rubbed timothy grass pollen into a cut in his hand a red, itching wheal appeared. When he applied the pollen to his nose he had a severe attack of what we call hay fever. He concluded that he was hypersensitive to pollens.

Today, if a doctor suspects you are suffering from an allergy he makes skin tests to determine to which things you are sensitive. Since there are so many things to which you could be allergic, he first asks a series of questions. If he learns that you feel ill every time you clean house, he makes a skin test with house dust or possibly with the dander of one of your house pets. If the skin tests show that you are hypersensitive to house dust, the doctor can reduce your sensitivity to it. He begins by injecting a weak solution of an extract of house dust. He gradually increases the strength of the injection until you become "desensitized" or are no longer allergic. The desensitizing agent is called an allergen. If your allergy had been something easier to avoid, and not too essential as, for instance, clams, the problem would be simpler. The doctor would advise you not to eat clams.

If the skin tests were infallible, allergies would be less of a problem. Unfortunately they are not. Some people with an allergy do not react positively to a skin test, some without an allergy do. These cases must be solved by trial and error.

Doctors now believe that the symptoms of some infectious diseases, undulant fever, for instance, are examples of bacterial allergy—hypersensitivity to certain bacteria. They are experimenting with methods of treatment, and hope to discover that some bacterial diseases can be treated successfully by desensitization with allergens.

In the next article, the role of X-ray in diagnosing early tuberculosis will be discussed.

Needs a Theatre

Tulare, Calif., (AP)—When the Lippert Construction Co., started an $80,000 outdoor theatre, a 10-year-old neighbor boy began nailing steps to the only tall tree near the walls. His tree house is nearly finished, but he'll see no free shows. The civilian production administration called the theatre non-essential and stopped the construction.

Dozen Meter

in the downtown area, said that in his opinion "nothing but confusion" would come of the meters installed in front of business houses downtown.

It may develop "that I'm wrong," Netburn said, "but I think there will be confusion for two reasons. One will be because of all-day parking and the other because of our loading problem."

Netburn said he believed that new parking habits developing with use of the meters will result in a shifting of parkers from Broadway to the side streets in the area. Considerable loading will also be done on side streets, he believed, and this would result in hampering two-way traffic on the narrow streets which cross lower Broadway.

Other loading will be done on Broadway, he predicted, and will lead to confusion, and he felt that the city officials should take this into consideration.

Asked if he had registered a complaint with the traffic committee of the Common Council, Netburn said he had not, nor had he attended the public hearing prior to Common Council action on the parking meters.

He said he felt that if the city officials thought the meters necessary, he was willing to wait out the results.

"Maybe I'm wrong in my opinion now," he said, "but if it doesn't work out, I'd like to see them do something about it."

Street Superintendent Ernest A. Steuding said Wednesday that work of installing the stanchions in the lower section was virtually completed.

Economic Analyst Says U. S. Has Reached Peak of Growth

New York, March 20 (AP)—The United States already has reached or is near the peak of her growth and faces an ultimate decline unless some revolutionary forces intervene, according to a book, "Cycles—The Science of Prediction," published tomorrow by Henry Holt & Company.

The book is written by Edward R. Dewey, who was chief economic analyst in the Department of Commerce under Herbert Hoover, and is now director of the Foundation for the Study of Cycles, and Edwin F. Dakin, author and public relations counsel. It says that a study of growth trends indicates the leveling-off stage has been reached, or soon will be, for America's economy and that the country is moving into old age.

Soviet Youngest Nation

The authors make their forecast through "ratio" charts which trace the rate of growth; rather than the actual amount of growth. They say that "when a consistent pattern of growth exists, we have sound grounds for making predictions" and that this "new approach" can move economics up to a scientific level.

While "biologically and industrially" the United States is a comparatively old nation, they say Russia entered into a new growth cycle following her revolution and "stands today as the youngest of the great nations of the world."

Their charts indicate:

How U. S. Is Declining

The rate of growth of U.S. manufactures has been declining steadily since around 1900, if production "for destruction" during the war years is ignored.

The decline in steam railways is already under way. Even when the war effort was in full swing in 1943, these roads actually were carrying less freight on a per capita basis than they had in most of the years from 1911 to 1929.

As of 1939, when war intervened, the rate of growth in the steel industry was around zero and once pent-up demands are met steel will sink back to its former levels.

Among other industries said to have seen their best days from the viewpoint of growth are shipbuilding, automobiles, coal, copper and lead production.

Atomic Energy May Help

The authors say that "any talk of the unlimited frontiers that lie before us is a pure expression of faith and hope" and they see no new industries with "enough drive to take up whatever slack in unemployment may develop in the late forties or early fifties."

Widespread peacetime development of atomic energy, however, they say, could provide a revolutionary spark to set the country off on a new growth pattern.

Dewey is an economic adviser to corporations in addition to directing the Foundation for the Study of Cycles. Among members of the executive committee of the foundation are Harlow Shapley, president of the American Association for the advancement of Science, William Cameron Forbes, chairman of the board of the Carnegie Institution of Washington; and Julian Huxley, director-general of the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

Dozen Meter

in the downtown area, said that in his opinion "nothing but confusion" would come of the meters installed in front of business houses downtown.

It may develop "that I'm wrong," Netburn said, "but I think there will be confusion for two reasons. One will be because of all-day parking and the other because of our loading problem."

Netburn said he believed that new parking habits developing with use of the meters will result in a shifting of parkers from Broadway to the side streets in the area. Considerable loading will also be done on side streets, he believed, and this would result in hampering two-way traffic on the narrow streets which cross lower Broadway.

Other loading will be done on Broadway, he predicted, and will lead to confusion, and he felt that the city officials should take this into consideration.

Asked if he had registered a complaint with the traffic committee of the Common Council, Netburn said he had not, nor had he attended the public hearing prior to Common Council action on the parking meters.

He said he felt that if the city officials thought the meters necessary, he was willing to wait out the results.

"Maybe I'm wrong in my opinion now," he said, "but if it doesn't work out, I'd like to see them do something about it."

Street Superintendent Ernest A. Steuding said Wednesday that work of installing the stanchions in the lower sector was virtually completed.

Economic Analyst Says U. S. Has Reached Peak of Growth

New York, March 20 (AP)—The United States already has reached or is near the peak of her growth and faces an ultimate decline unless some revolutionary forces intervene, according to a book, "Cycles—The Science of Prediction," published tomorrow by Henry Holt & Company.

The book is written by Edward R. Dewey, who was chief economic analyst in the Department of Commerce under Herbert Hoover and is now director of the Foundation for the Study of Cycles, and Edwin F. Dakin, author and public relations counsel. It says that a study of growth trends indicates the leveling-off stage has been reached, or soon will be, for America's economy and that the country is moving into old age.

Soviet Youngest Nation

The authors make their forecast through "ratic" charts which trace the rate of growth, rather than the actual amount of growth. They say that "when a consistent pattern of growth exists, we have sound grounds for making predictions" and that this "new approach" can move economics up to a scientific level.

While "biologically and industrially" the United States is a comparatively old nation, they say Russia entered into a new growth cycle following her revolution and "stands today as the youngest of the great nations of the world."

Their charts indicate:

How U. S. Is Declining

The rate of growth of U. S. manufactures has been declining steadily since around 1900, if production "for destruction" during the war years is ignored.

The decline in steam railways is already under way. Even when the war effort was in full swing in 1943, these roads actually were carrying less freight on a per capita basis than they had in most of the years from 1911 to 1929.

As of 1939, when war intervened, the rate of growth in the steel industry was around zero and once pent-up demands are met steel will sink back to its former levels.

Among other industries said to have seen their best days from the viewpoint of growth are shipbuilding, automobiles, coal, copper and lead production.

Atomic Energy May Help

The authors say that "any talk of the unlimited frontiers that lie before us is a pure expression of faith and hope" and they see no new industries with "enough drive to take up whatever slack in unemployment may develop in the late forties or early fifties."

Widespread peacetime development of atomic energy, however, they say, could provide a revolutionary spark to set the country off on a new growth pattern.

Dewey is an economic adviser to corporations in addition to directing the Foundation for the Study of Cycles. Among members of the executive committee of the foundation are Harlow Shapley, president of the American Association for the advancement of Science, William Cameron Forbes, chairman of the board of the Carnegie Institution of Washington; and Julian Huxley, director-general of the United Nations Economic and Social Council.

20 Are Convicted By War Crimes Court

Dachau, Germany, March 20 (AP)—Twenty Germans, former Gestapo agents and (SS) Elite Guardsmen, were convicted by an American war crimes court today of wartime mass murder and atrocities against United States fliers.

The one remaining defendant in the 100-day trial was acquitted. Sentences probably will be announced tomorrow.

widened by two feet on each side from Clinton to Washington avenue, and the water units must be moved two feet from their present location.

Mayor Edelmuth and members of the board expressed surprise at the fact that only two bids had been offered for the project. Street Superintendent Steuding said that notices had been mailed to every plumber in the city.

City Engineer Hallinan announced that the last piece of pipe was placed Tuesday on the Roosevelt Park "outfall" or storm water sewer project which had started originally several years ago as a W.P.A. project. He described it as one of the toughest undertaken by the city recently, and said that at one point workmen were forced to dig down 24 fet in wet clay.

With Qualifications

The tentative statement on "prospectuses" published last month contains the sentence "The auditor should not express an opinion if it is so qualified as to be useless to an investor . . ." We reprint from the January, 1930, issue of this journal the following report and suggest that it might be in the public interest to make no report at all.

"We have audited the Balance Sheet and say in our Report;
That the Cash is overstated, the cashier being short;
That the Customers' Receivables are very much past due;
That if there are some good ones they are very, very few;
That the Inventories are out of date and practically junk;
That the method of their pricing is very largely bunk;
That, according to our figures, the undertaking's wrecked,
But, subject to these comments, the Balance Sheet's correct."

"May it please your honor," said a lawyer, addressing one of the city judges, "I brought the prisoner from jail on a habeas corpus."

"Well," said a fellow in an undertone, who stood in the rear of the court, "these lawyers will say anything. I saw the man get out of a cab at the court door."

Jones—Why do you have such misspelled words and bad grammar on the signs in your windows?

Storekeeper — So people will think I'm a fool and come in expecting to get the best of me. Thanks to those signs, business is the best I've had in years.

Patient—Great Scott, doctor! What an awful bill for one week's treatment.

Doctor—My dear fellow, if you knew what an interesting case yours was, and how strongly I was tempted to let it go to a post mortem you wouldn't grumble at a bill three times as big as this.

"What's the election today for? Anybody happen to know?"

"It is to determine whether we shall have a convention to nominate delegates who will be voted on as to whether they will attend a caucus which will decide whether we shall have a primacy to determine whether the people want to vote on this same question again next year."

If increased prices mean reduced production, the ten cent juke box replacing the five cent machine, may be a blessing in disguise.

Boss—Simpkins, you've been drinking again. Now once and for all let me tell you that I'll do all the drinking that's done around here.

Of Curves and Places

I've everything the glamor girl
Can boast of nature's graces;
I've curves and lines the same as she,
But not in the same places.
—Helen Castle

"A nice sort of welcome!" said the father visiting his son at boarding school. "I am hardly out of the train when you ask me for money."

"Well, dad, you must admit the train was twenty minutes late."

A man appeared in a newspaper office to place an ad offering $100 for the return of his wife's pet cat.

Clerk—That's an awfully high price for a cat.

Danes Would Cooperate

Denmark's Consul General in New Zealand has suggested, in Auckland, that the two countries should work together to create new markets for their butter instead of spending large sums trying to compete with each other for British trade. He said they ought to strive to raise the standard of living in parts of the Far East, as great industrial centers of the future, so that a demand for butter would exist there.

With Qualifications

The tentative statement on "prospectuses" published last month contains the sentence "The auditor should not express an opinion if it is so qualified as to be useless to an investor . . ." We reprint from the January, 1930, issue of this journal the following report and suggest that it might be in the public interest to make no report at all.

"We have audited the Balance Sheet and say in our Report;
That the Cash is overstated, the cashier being short;
That the Customers' Receivables are very much past due;
That if there are some good ones they are very, very few;
That the Invent'ries are out of date and practically junk;
That the method of their pricing is very largely bunk;
That, according to our figures, the undertaking's wrecked,
But, subject to these comments, the Balance Sheet's correct."

"May it please your honor," said a lawyer, addressing one of the city judges, "I brought the prisoner from jail on a habeas corpus."

"Well," said a fellow in an undertone, who stood in the rear of the court, "these lawyers will say anything. I saw the man get out of a cab at the court door."

Jones—Why do you have such misspelled words and bad grammar on the signs in your windows?

Storekeeper — So people will think I'm a fool and come in expecting to get the best of me. Thanks to those signs, business is the best I've had in years.

Patient—Great Scott, doctor! What an awful bill for one week's treatment.

Doctor—My dear fellow, if you knew what an interesting case yours was, and how strongly I was tempted to let it go to a post mortem you wouldn't grumble at a bill three times as big as this.

"What's the election today for? Anybody happen to know?"

"It is to determine whether we shall have a convention to nominate delegates who will be voted on as to whether they will attend a caucus which will decide whether we shall have a primary to determine whether the people want to vote on this same question again next year."

If increased prices mean reduced production, the ten cent juke box replacing the five cent machine, may be a blessing in disguise.

Boss—Simpkins, you've been drinking again. Now once and for all let me tell you that I'll do all the drinking that's done around here.

Of Curves and Places

I've everything the glamor girl
Can boast of nature's graces;
I've curves and lines the same as she,
But not in the same places.

—Helen Castle

"A nice sort of welcome!" said the father visiting his son at boarding school. "I am hardly out of the train when you ask me for money."

"Well, dad, you must admit the train was twenty minutes late."

A man appeared in a newspaper office to place an ad offering $100 for the return of his wife's pet cat.

Clerk—That's an awfully high price for a cat.

Danes Would Cooperate

Denmark's Consul General in New Zealand has suggested, in Auckland, that the two countries should work together to create new markets for their butter instead of spending large sums trying to compete with each other for British trade. He said they ought to strive to raise the standard of living in parts of the Far East, as great industrial centers of the future, so that a demand for butter would exist there.

Army Will Settle For Guided Missile to Mars or Moon

Washington, March 20 (AP)—The army doesn't want a base on Mars or even the moon; it will settle for just a good guided missile.

Ordnance and research officials who read the prediction today of Maj. James R. Randolph, a reserve officer, that a rocket race to build military outposts on neighboring planets might come sooner than expected, decided their own ideas sum up this way:

"The cold, practical people here are working just to get a guided missile. Any flights to the moon or Mars are so far in the future that we give them no study or attention. We are interested only in staying ahead of competitors in time and design."

Randolph, writing for the Army Ordnance Association Journal, a non-official publication, suggested that in World War 3 an attack launched from an outpost established on Mars would have "vastly greater opportunities for secrecy and surprise."

He urged peacetime studies of "these other worlds, sending expeditions to them, and devising equipment to meet their special needs."

Pegged to Development

Randolph, author of several other speculative articles on rocket travel, said the problem of space navigation was pegged to development of a multiple-unit rocket to produce the desired size and speed.

Writing in the same issue of the magazine, Lt. Col. Harvey Rivkins, chief of the Ornance Department's Office of Technical Information was considerably less enthusiastic about the prospects for interplanetary travel.

Noting forecasts that it would take billions of dollars and years of research to perfect a rocket that would travel only as far as the moon, Rivkins added:

"Tremendous effort in time and money would at first result in putting a piece of metal the size of your fist on the moon (even though the rocket) would start off as a monster whose size would be almost impossible to handle."

Discussing with a reporter advances in the Army's V-2 rocket research, Rivkins said that "while we don't have a guilded missile now, the V-2 has taken us along the path. There is the possibility that the prototype of a guilded missile may appear within the next few months.

The rocketeers estimate that with recently developed improved fuels and by lightening the "payload," the V-2S now used might be fired up to horizontal distances of from 250 to 300 miles.

But as for the 238,857 miles to the moon and the 40,000,000 miles to Mars—they're not ready to make any guesses at all.

Police Still Puzzled Over Cellar Treasure

Philadelphia, March 20 (AP)—How $92,800 in new bills got into the cellar of a $75-a-week bookkeeper still puzzled police today.

Benjamin Lieberman reported discovery of the money in a cardboard box when he went to the basement for an electric light bulb last week.

Detective Lt. Frank May said many people have written letters claiming the money but added there have been no clues indicating who put the box of $10, $20 and $50 bills in the cellar or when.

Meantime, Lieberman's employer—the Cooklyn Milk Co.—hopes the case is cleaned up soon.

Israel Kodroff, president of the dairy firm, was fined $500 in U. S. District Court early this month on a charge of illegal possession of sugar stamps.

His brother, Henry, the company's salesmanager, says "it was only natural that on the strength of the conviction (of his brother on the stamp charge and with Lieberman working for us, that suspicion pointed to us.

"It was this," Kodroff said, "which has caused talk about the possibility that the $92,800 may have come from the black market."

Indictment Says 2 Held Woman in Slavery 40 Years

Los Angeles, March 20 (AP)—A federal indictment charging that Alfred W. Ingalls, retired Boston attorney, and his wife, Elizabeth, kept a Negro woman, Dora L. Jones, in slavery for 40 years was declared by U. S. authorities to be probably the first of its kind since the old post-Civil War reconstruction days.

The indictment was handed down yesterday after assistant U. S. Attorney Ernest A. Tolin said the evidence indicated Miss Jones was held in servitude since she was 17 years old under threats of criminal prosecution for an incident of undisclosed nature.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingalls are at liberty under bond on a U. S. commissioner's complaint issued in San Diego.

Their two daughters appeared before the grand jury, Mrs. Helen Roberts, Berkeley, Calif., testifying three weeks ago and the other, Mrs. Ruth Castendyk, Chicago, taking the stand yesterday.

"My sister and I have long thought we should take some action to give Dora a free life," Mrs. Castendyk told reporters.

Arraignment has been set for March 31.

Stock Exchange Firms Vote Increase in Rates

New York, March 20 (AP)—The board of governors of the Association of Stock Exchange Firms voted yesterday to recommend to the New York Stock Exchange an increase in commission rates for the purchase or sale of stocks on the exchange.

The proposed revision would base commissions on the amount of money involved rather than on the number of shares. It would also permit an increase in charges to compensate members for increased costs, James F. Burns, Jr., the association's president, announced.

Higher fees are needed, the association declared, to offset an average increase of 23.99 per cent in operating costs of member firms since 1942, last year in which the commission schedule was revised.

"This rise does not include business production expenses," Burns said. Since 1942 administrative and clerical expenses increased 45.7 per cent and rental rates 46.9 per cent, he continued.

Burns added that ticker and news service costs had increased 20 per cent since November, 1946.

It was estimated that new rates would result in an increase of about 25 per cent over present fees.

Four-Power Probe Asked by British

Would Check Alleged Red Interference

London, March 20 (AP)—Britain has called again for an immediate four-power probe into alleged Soviet "interference" in Hungary's internal political affairs, a foreign office spokesman said today.

In a new note delivered to the Russian representative on the Allied Control Council for Hungary, Lt. Gen. V. P. Sviridov, the government reaffirmed its view that the arrest of Bela Kovacs by Soviet Army men should be investigated together with charges that the Soviet occupation authorities were exercising pressure on Hungary's political parties.

Kovacs is secretary of the Hungarian Small Holder's party.

Russia rejected a previous British call for a four-power inquiry on the grounds it would be "unwarranted intervention" in Hungarian affairs. The Russians simultaneously denied charges of "interference" levelled against her by the U. S. State Department and the foreign office.

Will Arraign Three For Stealing Autos

Portland, Me., March 20 (AP)—Detective Capt. Edward M. Kochian said that two of three New Yorkers he quoted as admitting six car thefts would be arraigned before a U. S. commissioner today charged with illegal interstate transportation of two of the cars from Bronxville, N. Y., to Maine.

The trio was captured at gunpoint here yesterday in an allegedly stolen car. Police found two loaded revolvers in the machine.

David McIntyre, 30, and William R. Cook, 28, were booked temporarily on two larceny charges. Their companion, a 16-year-old boy, was held as a material witness, Kochian said.

Kochian said the trio had registered stolen cars in Maine and had sold them in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maine.

Alf Landon Backs Truman's Request

Wichita, Kas., March 20 (AP)—Alf M. Landon today backed President Truman's request for financial help and military advice to Greece and Turkey even though in making the loan, he said, the nation may be "deciding for war with Russia—just as much as we decided for war with Germany when lend-lease was passed."

"Either we perform now—or we are likely to follow the time-worn paths of procrastination, right into another war—10, 15 or 20 years from now," asserted the former Republican candidate, speaking at Temple Emanuel last night.

Index Fingerprints Prove Man Innocent

New York, March 20 (AP)—Thanks to the dissimilar index fingers of a couple of brothers named James Thomason, he conviction of police that fingerprints never are identical remained firm today—or at least fairly firm.

The threat to the fingerprint theory arose yesterday when James Thomason, 28, Negro, appeared before Magistrate Charles E. Ramsgate on an automobile homicide charge, and the court pointed out the police record of "James Thomason."

The defendant's attorney, Eugene K. Jones, Jr., then explained: "The man now before you has no record. You are looking at his brother's. I represented his brother, James G. Thomason, who is 27 and who now is on his way to Sing Sing for grand larceny."

The court directed Detective Joseph Whitmire to re-check the fingerprints. Two hours late he returned.

"Your Honor," the detective said, "Mr. Jones is right. These two fellows have the same first name, they are brothers and, what is more amazing, they have four fingerprints from their right hands which appear identical to the naked eye. And the prints of the index fingers are only slightly different.

"It is something we never ran across before."

"Since this man has no record," the magistrate said, "and the usual thing to do is to parole a man on this charge, I parole James I. Thomason for hearing March 25."

Fingerprint specialists explained later that prints that appear identical show variations under the microscope—and the theory that no two are alike still holds.

The puffing adder, widely regarded as dangerous, is harmless.

Germ, Dust-Proof Lab In Use by Chemical Co.

Rensselaer, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—A laboratory described by engineers as a germ and dust-proof "scientific Utopia" was in operation here today.

The four-story windowless brick and glass building, completely sealed in, is being used by the Winthrop Chemical Company for the manufacture of 40 per cent of the 700 types of drugs and medicines it produces.

Principal product of the laboratory will be glass-vial ampuls holding injectible medicine. They will be prepared in 35 germ-proofed and dustless workrooms on the upper floors.

Weather will have no effect upon the laboratory which creates its own weather by means of its heating and air conditioning systems.

Fresh air passes through precipitrons and over germidicial lamps for purification. The precipitrons are electrical devices which remove dust from the incoming air.

Employes and visitors to upper floors first will be "dedusted" by passing through a 16-foot U-shaped tunnel, lined with oil impregnated spun glass and blowing and suction fans. The maneuver is designed to remove line and dust from clothing.

Those who enter the weighing, preparation or filling rooms must wear nose and mouth masks and specially-designed dust-free gowns.

Soprano Announced In New Paltz Series

Anna Brown, American soprano, creator of "Bess" in Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," and star of the concert stage, will sing at the New Paltz State Teachers College Monday, March 31 under auspices of the New Paltz Artists Series. She will present a varied program including concert and operatic favorites, folk songs, spirituals, and selections from "Porgy and Bess."

After a sensational success on Broadway, in Gershwin's Negro folk opera, Miss Brown returned to the pursuit of her original ambition to become a concert singer. She has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Los Angeles Philharmonic, the Chicago Symphony, and other orchestras. She was Hollywood featured in the film "Rhapsody in Blue," the story of the life of George Gershwin. She is now on her third successful nation-wide concert tour.

Anne Brown is a native of Baltimore, where she began her training in music. Before appearing on Broadway, she studied at Columbia University and the Juilliard School of Music. At the latter school she received the coveted Margaret McGill scholarship for post-graduate work—the only Negro singer thus honored.

Miss Brown has been acclaimed by critics for the warmth and richness of their voice, her fine musicianship, and the sympathetic feeling and understanding with which she presents all of her songs.

A spring concert, May 20, by the musical organizations at the Teachers College in New Paltz will be the final event in the New Paltz Artists Series of this season.

Soprano Announced In New Paltz Series

Anna Brown, American soprano, creator of "Bess" in Gershwin's "Porgy and Bess," and star of the concert stage, will sing at the New Paltz State Teachers College Monday, March 31 under auspices of the New Paltz Artists Series. She will present a varied program including concert and operatic favorites, folk songs, spirituals, and selections from "Porgy and Bess."

After a sensational success on Broadway in Gershwin's Negro folk opera, Miss Brown returned to the pursuit of her original ambition to become a concert singer. She has appeared as soloist with the New York Philharmonic Symphony, the Philadelphia Orchestra, the Los Angeles Philharmonic, the Chicago Symphony, and other orchestras. She was Hollywood featured in the film "Rhapsody in Blue," the story of the life of George Gershwin. She is now on her third successful nation-wide concert tour.

Anne Brown is a native of Baltimore, where she began her training in music. Before appearing on Broadway, she studied at Columbia University and the Juilliard School of Music. At the latter school she received the coveted Margaret McGill scholarship for post-graduate work—the only Negro singer thus honored.

Miss Brown has been acclaimed by critics for the warmth and richness of their voice, her fine musicianship, and the sympathetic feeling and understanding with which she presents all of her songs.

A spring concert, May 20, by the musical organizations at the Teachers College in New Paltz will be the final event in the New Paltz Artists Series of this season.

Sydney Girls Storm Wharf to See Sailors

Sydney, March 20 (AP)—Led by an excited redhead, more than 100 Sydney girls broke through Woolcomooloo Wharf gate today to see off about 1,000 United States sailors leaving on three vessels of the Byrd Antarctic expedition.

They swung open the heavy gate, breaking the padlock, and surged on to the wharf beside the destroyer Henderson, seaplane tender Carrituck and tanker Cacapon, which had spent six days at Sydney after 102 days on an Antarctic voyage.

Quickly ushered back off the wharf by police, the girls yelled excited farewells as the three craft moved into the harbor and headed for San Diego, Calif.

FIRST-NAME CALLING

Further proof of the extent to which our first-name calling epidemic has gone is furnished by the mother who asks: "How can my husband and I get our youngsters to call their school and Sunday school teachers 'Miss' and 'Mrs.' when they're in classes? They are permitted to call both by first names here at home, socially, because they happen to be two of my best friends. I don't want the children to do it in school and I understand they are slipping at times."

From my own point of view, the children should not have been allowed to get into the habit of calling your contemporaries by their first names. However, children, being more understanding than many people give them credit for, will possibly make the distinction between the two places, if you make the fact of your embarrassment clear to them.

However, as long as children hear their parents call literally everyone they speak to by first names—whether they are old or young, intimate friends or new acquaintances—they hardly can be expected to develop a proper attitude of courtesy all by themselves.

Reception Should be Mentioned

Dear Mrs. Post: Should not a reception card be enclosed, even when the reception is taking place right under the church roof? On several occasions, nothing has been said in the invitation and yet we were expected to come to the reception. One time I had to hurry on to a meeting, which I would have been glad to cancel had I had any idea of the reception, and another time I was on my way out of church when a member of the family said everyone was expected to stay.

Answer: A message should have been added at the end of the invitation, reading: Reception in assembly room following service.

Short Veil with Long Dress

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it unsuitable to wear a satin wedding dress with a rather long train and a hip-length veil instead of a long veil?

Answer: Its unsuitability would be merely one of unbecomingness to the "lines" of the dress. If it looks well over your particular dress, then it will be quite all right.

Mrs. Post has written a leaflet which includes showers for many occasions, the invitation, presentation of gifts and many other details. The title is, "Let's Give a Shower." Sydney Girls Storm Wharf to See Sailors Sydney, March 20 (AP)—Led by an excited redhead, more than 100 Sydney girls broke through Wooloomooloo Wharf gate today to see off about 1,000 United States sailors leaving on three vessels of the Byrd Antarctic expedition.

They swung open the heavy gate, breaking the padlock, and surged on to the wharf beside the destroyer Henderson, seaplane tender Carrituck and tanker Cacapon, which had spent six days at Sydney after 102 days on an Antarctic voyage.

Quickly ushered back off the wharf by police, the girls yelled excited farewells as the three craft moved into the harbor and headed for San Diego, Calif.

FIRST-NAME CALLING

Further proof of the extent to which our first-name calling epidemic has gone is furnished by the mother who asks: "How can my husband and I get our youngsters to call their school and Sunday school teachers 'Miss' and 'Mrs.' when they're in classes? They are permitted to call both by first names here at home, socially, because they happen to be two of my best friends. I don't want the children to do it in school and I understand they are slipping at times."

From my own point of view, the children should not have been allowed to get into the habit of calling your contemporaries by their first names. However, children, being more understanding than many people give them credit for, will possibly make the distinction between the two places, if you make the fact of your embarrassment clear to them.

However, as long as children hear their parents call literally everyone they speak to by first names—whether they are old or young, intimate friends or new acquaintances—they hardly can be expected to develop a proper attitude of courtesy all by themselves.

Reception Should be Mentioned

Dear Mrs. Post: Should not a reception card be enclosed, even when the reception is taking place right under the church roof? On several occasions, nothing has been said in the invitation and yet we were expected to come to the reception. One time I had to hurry on to a meeting, which I would have been glad to cancel had I had any idea of the reception, and another time I was on my way out of church when a member of the family said everyone was expected to stay.

Answer: A message should have been added at the end of the invitation, reading: Reception in assembly room following service.

Short Veil with Long Dress

Dear Mrs. Post: Is it unsuitable to wear a satin wedding dress with a rather long train and a hip-length veil instead of a long veil?

Answer: Its unsuitability would be merely one of unbecomingness to the "lines" of the dress. If it looks well over your particular dress, then it will be quite all right.

New York Guild Votes Confidence In Its Officials

New York, March 20 (AP)—A 111-to-46 vote of "complete confidence" in its present officers as the New York City Newspaper Guild's reply to criticism from the Guild's national president that the local "is probably Communist-dominated."

The vote was taken last night at a representative assembly of delegates from city units of the American Newspaper Guild (C. I. O.) having an estimated 8,000 members.

Milton Murray, A.N.G. president, his appearance at the meeting greeted by cheers and boos, repeated his statement made before the House labor committee in Washington that "in my opinion, the New York local of the newspaper guild is probably Communist-dominated," and that Jack Ryan, its executive vice president, "is a Communist."

Murray said that Ryan had not denied the charge and probably would "go on ducking the question for some time."

In response to a delegate's question from the floor, "is Ryan, or is he not, a Communist?" Ryan had risen earlier to say:

"I think it is none of his business. It would be his business, and it will be his business, when Jack Ryan runs for office. It is none of his business now because of the context in which the question is raised."

Ryan said his political views had been brought up by Murray "before an anti-labor congressional committee" which, he said, "was looking for a peg on which to hang some anti-labor legislation and destroy this union."

Guild members, Ryan continued, would be "suckers to permit this thing to become an issue now. I can take care of myself, but the Guild suffers."

Murray said he interpreted the confidence resolution to mean that "you will run your local as you see fit and elect Communists as you wish."

The local's president, John T. McManus, observed that the local places no restriction on the political convictions of members.

Senator Taft Is Behind Truman on Export Controls

Washington, March 20 (AP)—Senator Taft (R.-Ohio), threw his weight behind President Truman's appeal for continued export controls today as the Senate Finance committee sought to determine likely American commitments to the proposed international trade organization.

Taft told a reporter he agrees with the Chief Executive that the government must keep a tight reign on goods shipped to foreign countries. Mr. Truman said that power is needed now more than ever since this country has "become a nation with world wide responsibilities."

"It seems to me that control over what can be shipped and where it can be sent will be particularly necessary if we are to step in to aid Greece and Turkey," Taft said.

But he cannot go along, the Ohio senator added, with the President's previous request—to continue wartime controls over many domestic commodities and services, through allocations and priorities. He mentioned sugar and rubber as exceptions, however.

The support of Taft, who heads the Senate Republican policy committee, diminished the possibility of a partisan fight on the export issue.

But Chairman Millikin (R.-Colo.), said the finance committee wants to know, among other things, what effect keeping these controls will have on the international trade organization proposal. The group called William L. Clayton, under secretary of state for economic affairs, before it for testimony at an afternoon hearing.

To Hear Sugar Arguments

Washington, March 20 (AP)—The Senate G.O.P. Policy Committee will hear arguments for and against sugar rationing and price ceilings in a meeting tomorrow which Chairman Taft (Ohio), hopes will speed a decision before present controls expire March 31. The Senate Banking Committee has approved a bill to continue the controls another year under the secretary of agriculture.

Daughter and Her Fiance Deny Any Part in Dynamite Blast on Cruiser

Santa Ana, Calif., March 20 (AP) — Two blond college students, engaged to be married next month, were in Orange county jail today awaiting outcome of police investigation into the explosion deaths late Saturday night of the girl's wealthy parents aboard their 47-foot yacht in Newport harbor.

Beulah Louise Overell, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell, and George Rector Gollum, 21, were arrested yesterday after Sheriff James Musick and Newport Beach Police Chief R. R. Hodgkinson said 30 sticks of dynamite and a wired clock were discovered in the wrecked hulk. The yacht sank following the explosion and investigators went aboard after it was raised the next day.

Interviewed separately last night both Gollum and Miss Overell denied any responsibility for the tragedy. They said they had left the boat for hamburgers shortly before the explosion.

She disclosed that her 62-year-old father and 57-year-old mother had opposed her marriage to Gollum.

"They didn't want to give me up," she said. "They thought I was too young. They finally gave in after we said we were going to get married anyway. Both of us were going to finish school and work at the same time. We wouldn't have needed any of their money to support us."

Gollum is a six-foot, one-inch premedical student at Los Angeles City College. His fiancee is a freshman at the University of Southern California, majoring in journalism.

"We are not accused of anything," Gollum stated calmly. "We are simply being held under suspicion while police make their investigations. There can't be anything more to it than that, because we know nothing about the accident."

Chief Hodgkinson said "investigation of the explosion developed such incriminating evidence that we believe we were justified in booking the girl and her friend on suspicion of murder." He added, however, that there is nothing definitely linknig the pair with the dynamite and the wired clock.

Man Saturates Self With Gas, Burns to Death

Detroit, March 20 (AP)—While two small boys and a woman watched, a 60-year-old widower jumped into a ring of flames he had set and burned to death on a park baseball diamond last night.

The victim, identified by Police Lt. Vincent Mann as William H. Mathewson, doused his clothing and a small section of the ground with gasoline, then lit the fuel and stepped into the fire to his death, the witnesses reported.

Lt. Mann, who described the incident as "one of the strangest" in his experience, said a post mortem was being conducted, but added that the man obviously meant to take his own life.

Mathewson's landlady, Miss Margaret Allison, said he had been despondent recently because of a lame leg. She said her roomer, whose wife died seven years ago, was receiving aid from the welfare department.

Edward Benz, 13, and his ten-year-old brother Michael told of the elderly man's strange death while they were flying kites.

Brewster Objects To U. S. as 3rd Rate Air Force Power

Indianapolis, Ind., March 20 (AP)—Senator Brewster (R.-Me.) implied today that both Russia and England surpass the United States in military aviation and said this raises a question whether cuts in President Truman's budget should be permitted to fall on the air force.

"We cannot afford to remain the world's third ranking air power Brewster said in an address prepared for the first American Legion National Aeronautics Conference.

He called attention to an official Russian statement that "we must have the most powerful air force in the world," and to reports that the British air arms will be "appreciably" larger than the projected U. S. Army Air Forces.

Brewster said the Soviets have built 100 weather reporting stations equipped with four planes each, in the strategic Arctic. Noting that establishment of four American stations in the Arctic last year prompted Russian charges that this was "a hostile and aggressive act aimed at Russia," he commented:

"Sometimes one can infer the intentions of others from their suspicions."

Great Britain, while concentrating on development of air power, is reducing her navy by 65 per cent and apparently depending upon the United States for sea power, Brewster said.

Penn Legislators Urged To Get Public Sentiment

Harrisburg, Pa., March 20 (AP)—Pennsylvania's lawmakers, back home for the week-end, were advised to talk to the man-in-the-street about taxes before coming back next Monday to act on Governor James H. Duff's state and local tax program.

"Go home during the week and consult your constituents concerning this tax program," Rep. Hiram G. Andrews, the Democratic minority leader, told the overwhelmingly Republican House as the legislature adjourned yesterday.

"After all, it is the people back home who must finance this program," Andrews asserted.

The minority leader made his statement as tax programs for state and local governments started through the Assembly.

A group of bills designed to raise $133,000,000 in new taxes to help finance the record-setting $860,000,000 budget recommended by the Governor was approved by the House Ways and Means Committee and is ready for floor action.

Another House bill would permit any municipality, except Philadelphia, to levy a wage, sales or any other tax not levied by the commonwealth. Philadelphia taxes payrolls one percent.

HI, BEAVERS!

SMITH BROTHERS, of POUGHKEEPSIE, of cough drop fame, are 100 years old. In this century the firm has enjoyed a steady progress, and the founders—the famous bearded brothers "Trade" and "Mark"—are known wherever people cough . . . and that covers a lot of territory! We extend our sincere congratulations to the company upon the occasion of their One Hundredth Anniversary.

From fuzz to full foliage we've watched one phase of the company's celebration—the growing of the beards! On January 1st, most male employees signed a pact to leave their whiskers be until the anniversary date of the founding of the company. S'wonderful!

In one way we figure we've been cheated. We've lost the sale of gas and electricity which would ordinarily have heated shaving water over these two and one-half months! But, we'll get even . . . now it's going to take plenty to help mow down the accumulation. So, fellas, be sure your Automatic Gas or Electric Water Heater is ready to go. From the looks of things, you'll need it!

Incidentally, folks, an Automatic Gas or Electric Water Heater helps mow down plenty of jobs around the house!

WHERE DEPENDABLE HEAT IS REQUIRED for cooking, water heating, space heating . . . Electricity and city gas are the only 100% carefree fuels.
• Both are delivered entirely automatically the moment you need them
• No storage space required for these fuels
• You pay for them after you use them

Thomas Morehouse, 81, Dies at Terwilliger Home at Early Morning Hour

Thomas Morehouse, 81, of Cherrytown slumped in his rocking chair and fell to the floor dead this morning about 2:30 o'clock, according to Coroner Arthur Chipp of Kerhonkson.

His death, due to natural causes, the coroner's report revealed, occurred in the home of John Terwilliger with whom he resided.

Mr. Terwilliger told Coroner Chipp that the aged man had complained of a stomach ache yesterday, but previous to that had been in apparent good health for his age.

The coroner said that he would not order an autopsy as all indications were that death was brought on by natural causes.

Mr. Terwilliger when interrogated by Coroner Chipp said that as he talked with the aged man his body slumped forward and fell to the floor.

When attempts to revive him failed, Mr. Terwilliger went to a neighbor, William Smith, for help.

Abraham Smith, a brother of the man who had accompanied Mr. Terwilliger back to attend to Mr. Morehouse, called Coroner Chipp, who pronounced him dead upon arrival.

Mr. Morehouse had been retired for a number of years, but before he became inactive farm work was his livelihood.

Crafts Display at Union-Fern

For some time the Recreation Department has carried on a crafts program in five of the city schools and at the Recreation Center. The program has been made possible by the cooperation of the Board of Education, which permitted the department to send an arts and crafts instructor to the schools during school hours. Two weeks ago prizes were offered for the best specimen of craft and art work, which is now on display at the Union-Fern store on Wall street.

The Recreation Department has furnished the supervision as well as the tools, paints and other material. This material, such as orange crates, has been donated by local merchants. The recreation director thanks the friends who have donated the tools, paints and other supplies. Recent contributors include the Lions Club, Mayor Edelmuth, Kingston Elks, Captain A. S. Hickey (U.S.N.) and Reben's Hardware.

Some of the children are selling specimens of their craftsmanship. The maker's name and school he attends are on a tag. Arrangements for purchases may be made with the Recreation Department, 'phone 1682.

Schools Display Pictures, Crafts At Uptown Store

A varied and interesting display of pictures and handicraft made by the pupils of Public Schools Nos. 1, 2, 4, 7 and 8 is attracting attention in the windows of the Union-Fern store at 328 Wall street.

The exhibits, which show a creditable degree of effort and ability on the part of the young folks, represent a part of the crafts program of the Kingston Recreation Department. All of the articles shown, it was stated, were made from scrap material.

Some of the popular comic features of the day appear in large size cut-outs. They include "Henry," "Donald Duck," and other Walt Disney creations. Numerous rabbits and other animals also are shown.

There is a varied display of carts, a covered wagon, a destroyer with guns mounted ready for action, hobby horses, cradles, airplanes and there is a hack-saw, the work of two 12-year-old pupils.

The days when jig-saw work was the craze are brought back by several good examples of fretwork brackets. There is also a good exhibit of framed pictures, showing various subjects done in crayon or pencil.

All the work is done by pupils who have been under instruction of a representative of the Recreation Department, who spends one day each week at the different schools represented. Already, the work is said to have demonstrated its value in arousing and holding pupil interest.

Prizes Offered

The Kingston Lions Club, which is taking an interest in this program is offering five block planes as prizes for this exhibit. A plane will be awarded to the pupil in each school whose exhibit is judged to be the best.

In addition to offering prizes to winners in the present exhibit the Lions Club has further shown its interest in the crafts program by donating to each of the five schools participating a gross of coping blades and 250 sheets of sandpaper in assorted sizes.

Colony Would Use Ballot to Learn How Drivers Feel

V. J. Andretta of Colony Liquor Distributors said today that management was willing to submit the question of a nine or 12 months contract to the individual members of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters and Chauffeurs Local No. 445, for a decision by secret ballot.

Mr. Andretta said union officials have refused to accept this proposal and indicated that Colony Liquor would abide by the ballot decision.

Fifteen truck drivers employed by Colony Liquor and Colonial Carriers of Kingston and Albany are out on strike in protest against the company's alleged refusal to grant a uniform contract and the termination of all liquor dealer agreements on the same date, according to Anthony Bradeo, business representative of Local 445.

In a statement to The Freeman yesterday Mr. Andretta declared that the sole cause of the strike is the union's insistence on a nine-month's contract instead of the standard one year's contract proposed by management.

ing continuation of a 50 per cent increase in teacher salaries. He warned, however, that additional revenue was needed, and by implication supported the only pending revenue measure—a 3 per cent retail sales tax.

Thompson, upheld as acting governor by the state supreme court yesterday, quickly accepted a hastily voted invitation to address the assembly and said he would outline his "must" program of essential legislation.

With the exception of a single local bill, all the assembly's enacted measures have gone for executive approval to Herman Talmadge, whose election by the legislature as governor was invalidated by the high court decision.

State Attorney General Eugene Cook ruled in a formal opinion that measures signed by Talmadge were invalid unless resubmitted to Governor Thompson. He suggested the legislature could accomplish this by a joint resolution requesting the secretary of state to return all Talmadge-signed bills and directing that they be submitted to Thompson for approval.

Prepared for Introduction

Rep. Charles Gowen, a Thompson leader, indicated such a resolution would be prepared for immediate introduction. The legislature is fighting against a Saturday midnight deadline to clear its calendars of such major legislation as the $118,000,000 general appropriations bill and a general sales tax measure.

The high court rejected the legislature's election of Talmadge as "a void act, which did not confer upon him any right or title to the office of governor." The 5-to-2 decision, momentous in the state's history, held that there was no legal successor to Gov. Ellis Arnall after the death of Gov. Elect Eugene Talmadge 23 days before his scheduled inauguration and that the executive power properly passed from Arnall, on his resignation January 18, to Thompson as acting governor.

Talmadge, who had once said the courts had no authority to adjudicate the disputed governorship, then calmly accepted the decision and promptly vacated the executive offices and the governor's mansion. Subordinates handed over the keys to Thompson.

WAYS WITH EGGS

Food Value in eggs is not affected by shell color, grade, or size.

Top-grade eggs are especially desirable for poaching, cooking in the shell, or frying. Grade B eggs are suitable for baking purposes and for cooked dishes.

Cook eggs at low to moderate, even heat. Eggs cooked at too high temperature get tough and leathery.

Keeping eggs under refrigeration will do much to retain the quality.

Consider the egg as you plan family menus. Eggs are a basic food. They add efficient proteins, essential minerals, necessary vitamins to the diet.

There's a place for the egg in every meal. Serve them poached or fried, shirred, or scrambled. Add them to hot breakfast breads, to desserts. Serve them in main dish meals. For health, for downright goodness, any day, any way, any meal—serve eggs!

Egg Timbales

5 egg yolks; 1 cup milk; 1 tsp. grated onion; 1 tbs. chopped parsley; ¼ cup mayonnaise

To the well-beaten egg yolk add the milk and mayonnaise, grated onion and parsley. Pour into greased custard cups and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 45 minutes.

Turn egg timbales out of custard cups onto hot plates. Garnish with minced parsley and serve with mushrooms or tomato sauce.

Rice Brothers Have Dollar Bill of 1831

If a dollar bill dated October 20, 1831, and old coins have any numismatic value, then John and Charles Rice, operators of Rice Brothers Foundary and Machine Works on Abeel street, may regret not having looked in a forgotten safe long ago.

The owners of the foundry bought the safe from a local concern about 30 years ago, and gave it little attention until lately. They found it contained the bill, a pew rent receipt for the First Dutch Reformed Church dating back 95 years, some coins and other papers.

The ancient dollar bill was drawn on the Ulster County Bank, A. Bryun Hasbrouck, president, and on the reverse side indicated it had been redeemed July 30, 1877.

Changes Contemplated At Senate Museum

A conference was held at the Senate Museum on Fair street Tuesday afternoon to discuss changes and alterations in the large room at the left of the entrance to the building, known as the Judge Alton B. Parker room, which are contemplated by the State Department of Education.

Meeting with Edward Coykendall, president of the board of trustees of the museum, and Mrs. Alton B. Parker were: Dr. Albert B. Corey, state historian, and Mrs. Corey; Dr. Carl E. Guthe, director of the Albany Museum, and Mrs. Guthe; John J. Vrooman of Schenectady, supervisor of historic sites, and Mrs. Vrooman; H. J. Syrin, representative of the Library Bureau of the Remington Rand Co., and Mrs. Syrin; Miss Vogt, Remington Rand Librarian.

It is understood that changes contemplated will include a new lighting system and new display cases permitting a better display of the Judge Parker collection, designed to make the exhibits more accessible to students.

The Judge Parker room, established at the time of the opening of the museum in 1931, features a valuable collection of photographs and autographs of each elected governor of the state of New York and of some of the colonial governors.

There is also a handsome mahogany desk, originally owned and used by former Governor Frank S. Black. It was given to Judge Alton B. Parker and was used by him during his term as chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Rice Brothers Have Dollar Bill of 1831

If a dollar bill dated October 20, 1831, and old coins have any numismatic value, then John and Charles Rice, operators of Rice Brothers Foundary and Machine Works on Abeel street, may regret not having looked in a forgotten safe long ago.

The owners of the foundry bought the safe from a local concern about 30 years ago, and gave it little attention until lately. They found it contained the bill, a pew rent receipt for the First Dutch Reformed Church dating back 95 years, some coins and other papers.

The ancient dollar bill was drawn on the Ulster County Bank, A. Bryun Hasbrouck, president, and on the reverse side indicated it had been redeemed July 30, 1877.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of excess acids and poisonous waste.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels, so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, a stimulant diuretic, used successfully by millions for over 50 years. Doan's give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Changes Contemplated At Senate Museum

A conference was held at the Senate Museum on Fair street Tuesday afternoon to discuss changes and alterations in the large room at the left of the entrance to the building, known as the Judge Alton B. Parker room, which are contemplated by the State Department of Education.

Meeting with Edward Coykendall, president of the board of trustees of the museum, and Mrs. Alton B. Parker were: Dr. Albert B. Corey, state historian, and Mrs. Corey; Dr. Carl E. Guthe, director of the Albany Museum, and Mrs. Guthe; John J. Vrooman of Schenectady, supervisor of historic sites, and Mrs. Vrooman; H. J. Syrin, representative of the Library Bureau of the Remington Rand Co., and Mrs. Syrin; Miss Vogt, Remington Rand Librarian.

It is understood that changes contemplated will include a new lighting system and new display cases permitting a better display of the Judge Parker collection, designed to make the exhibits more accessible to students.

The Judge Parker room, established at the time of the opening of the museum in 1931, features a valuable collection of photographs and autographs of each elected governor of the state of New York and of some of the colonial governors.

There is also a handsome mahogany desk, originally owned and used by former Governor Frank S. Black. It was given to Judge Alton B. Parker and was used by him during his term as chief judge of the Court of Appeals.

Greeks Are Ready To Fight Guerrillas

Full-Scale Drive to Begin Near Mt. Grammos

Salonika, Greece, March 20 (AP)—Greek government troops were reported ready to begin full-scale operations today against guerrillas in the neighborhood of Mount Grammos near the Albanian border.

Alexis Kyrou, Greek liaison officer with the United Nations Balkan investigating commission here made a formal announcement of the planned drive last night.

The area selected is that in which Russian and Polish delegates on a commission team remained last Sunday when the rest of the team gave up a two-day effort to get in touch with rebel "Gen. Markos" and pulled out.

Official commission sources said that at last reports the Russian and Polish representatives were in the plateau village of Kastanofiton near Mount Grammos and northeast of the Grevena Plain. The delegates had announced their intention to keep trying for a meeting with "Markos."

Bathing Will Be Permitted

New York, March 20 (AP)—Bathing in Jamaica Bay along the northern shore of the Rockaway peninsula will be permitted after a sewage disposal plant is constructed on the peninsula, John C. Riedel, chief engineer of the Board of Estimate, yesterday told representatives of the Seaside Board of Trade at a meeting of the City Planning Commission.

Home, James

Louisville, Ky., (AP)—A police cruiser halted at an intersection here to await a signal change. A man with a glassy look in his eye opened the door of the car and stepped in. "Fourth and Magnolia," he said settling down on the seat. "You mean Sixth and Jefferson (that's the jail)," said Traffic Patrolman Robert Hardin. In police court, the defendant was placed under peace bond and told to learn the difference between a taxicab and a police car.

Salmon Far Off Beat

Finding of a salmon identified as of the Alaskan type, on a beach at Marrawah, on Tasmania's west coast, has caused scientists to believe that Alaskan salmon are spawning in Tasmanian rivers. Mrs. E. W. Fork, who picked up the fish, was struck by its unusual appearance and took it home. Her husband showed it to Bruce Stoney of Southern Marine Products, who decided it was a northern fish and sent it on to Melbourne for positive identification.

Japanese Filibuster

Tokyo, March 20 (AP)—Japanese legislators, who have been practicing democracy for months now, came up today with their first filibuster.

Only they don't call it that in the Orient—it's too hard to translate. They call it "unfinished deliberation."

Social Democrats in the Diet objected to a government attempt to increase the number of electoral districts and announced they would talk far into the night, if necessary, to prevent a vote.

Slipup Bares Slip

Omaha, Nebr., March 20 (AP)—The familiar reminder that "your slip is showing" was something of an understatement for an office employe at Union Pacific Railroad headquarters here.

Arriving for work, she discovered that in her haste she had forgotten to don a skirt over her black slip.

A smock hanging on a nearby coatrack served as a temporary substitute.

Earthy Suggestion

Des Moines, Ia., March 20 (AP)—State Representative Harold Nelson has his own scheme for speeding up adjournment of the Iowa Legislature.

The Sioux City Republican has a cigar box filled with earth on his desk in the House chamber. Sprouts of corn, wheat and oats are visible.

"When the corn gets a couple of inches high," Nelson said, "the farmer members will become restless and will want to go home."

Feline Burial

San Diego, Calif., March 20 (AP)—Guy Ryan buried the cat quietly and at night so that his nine-year-old daughter Linda, would not know he had found it dead on the highway near their home.

He and Mrs. Ryan planned to tell Linda the cat had found another home.

In the morning Ryan, assistant city editor of the San Diego Tribune-Sun, stepped out on the back porch for the milk. There was the cat mewing hungrily.

Now he's wondering whose cat he buried.

Sing Sing Crowded

Ossining, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—Sing Sing prison officials are hoping there isn't a crime wave in the near future. They reported yesterday that inmates now total 1,820, two short of a capacity achieved by utilizing all ordinary cells and hospital cots.

CONCRETE streets are an all-year asset to any city. But you'll appreciate them most when spring "break-ups" have made many streets impassable with mud, ruts, bumps and chuckholes.

Concrete is an all-season pavement: always easy-riding; skid-resistant, wet or dry; good for decades with very little maintenance. No closing for spring repairs!

Concrete not only saves on spring maintenance. It usually costs less to build than other pavements of equal load-carrying capacity. Be sure your streets are paved with concrete.

Greeks Are Ready ToFightGuerrillas

Full-Scale Drive to Begin Near Mt. Grammos

Salonika, Greece, March 20 (AP)—Greek government troops were reported ready to begin full-scale operations today against guerrillas in the neighborhood of Mount Grammos near the Albanian border.

Alexis Kyrou, Greek liaison officer with the United Nations Balkan investigating commission here made a formal announcement of the planned drive last night.

The area selected is that in which Russian and Polish delegates on a commission team remained last Sunday when the rest of the team gave up a two-day effort to get in touch with rebel "Gen. Markos" and pulled out.

Official commission sources said that at last reports the Russian and Polish representatives were in the plateau village of Kastanofiton near Mount Grammos and northeast of the Grevena Plain. The delegates had announced their intention to keep trying for a meeting with "Markos."

Bathing Will Be Permitted

New York, March 20 (AP)—Bathing in Jamaica Bay along the northern shore of the Rockaway peninsula will be permitted after a sewage disposal plant is constructed on the peninsula, John C. Riedel, chief engineer of the Board of Estimate, yesterday told representatives of the Seaside Board of Trade at a meeting of the City Planning Commission.

AfterBath Care

Many new mothers wonder whether to put oil or powder on baby's skin after a bath. Which you use isn't so important. What kind you use is vital, however.

Never buy a baby powder containing stearate of zinc. If this chemical is inhaled, a serious and often fatal form of pneumonia develops. You can safely use talcum powder, but protect baby's face with your hand so none is inhaled. Apply lightly; wipe off any excess.

If the baby's chafed, oil is preferable (except in hot weather) as it soothes the skin and helps protect against future irritations. Put a few drops in your hand or on a piece of cotton and pat into the folds and creases of baby's skin.

Taking care of a new baby is a king-size job. Our latest Reader Service booklet No. 203 can help you in countless ways. Contains expert advice on breast and bottle feeding, starting solids, toilet-training, bathing, good sleep habits, play and exercise, prevention of accidents and diseases, care of the sick baby—40 pages of real help.

Send 25c (coin) for "Baby Care" to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Reader Service, 243 West 17th street, New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet, title and No. 203.

Other Reader Service booklets available for 25c each are No. 29—"Success with House Plants and Flowers" and No. 94—"New Ideas for Handmade Rugs."

Housing Shortage Is Called National Disaster by C.I.O.

Washington, March 20 (AP)—The C.I.O. described the housing shortage today as "a national disaster" and told Congress "the strongest measures are needed to cope with the situation."

C.I.O. President Philip Murray and Chairman R. J. Thomas of the union's housing committee made public a letter to Senator Tobey (R.-N. H.), chairman of the Senate banking committee, pledging support to the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing bill.

This measure aims to encourage the building of 15,000,000 city and rural homes in the next 10 years through private enterprise and federal aid. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Fiorello LaGuardia, former mayor of New York, were invited to give their views on it at today's committee session.

"Crowding and doubling up have grown worse during the past year," Murray and Thomas said. "The worst sufferers are those who have had to seek dwellings, notably war workers and veterans. Their plight is even more desperate than a year ago."

They suggested that the bill be amended to permit federal insurance of 100 per cent of loans for private rental or cooperative projects at 3 per cent interest, and federal loans covering 100 per cent of the starting costs for manufacturers who want to go in for prefabricated housing.

AfterBath Care

Many new mothers wonder whether to put oil or powder on baby's skin after a bath. Which you use isn't so important. What kind you use is vital, however.

Never buy a baby powder containing stearate of zinc. If this chemical is inhaled, a serious and often fatal form of pneumonia develops. You can safely use talcum powder, but protect baby's face with your hand so none is inhaled. Apply lightly; wipe off any excess.

If the baby is chafed, oil is preferable (except in hot weather) as it soothes the skin and helps protect against future irritations. Put a few drops in your hand or on a piece of cotton and pat into the folds and creases of baby's skin.

Taking care of a new baby is a king-size job. Our latest Reader Service booklet No. 203 can help you in countless ways. Contains expert advice on breast and bottle feeding, starting solids, toilet-training, bathing, good sleep habits, play and exercise, prevention of accidents and diseases, care of the sick baby—40 pages of real help.

Send 25c (coin) for "Baby Care" to The Kingston Daily Freeman, Reader Service, 243 West 17th street, New York 11, N. Y. Print name, address, booklet, title and No. 203.

Other Reader Service booklets available for 25c each are No. 29—"Success with House Plants and Flowers" and No. 94—"New Ideas for Handmade Rugs."

Housing Shortage Is Called National Disaster by C.I.O.

Washington, March 20 (AP)—The C.I.O. described the housing shortage today as "a national disaster" and told Congress "the strongest measures are needed to cope with the situation."

C.I.O. President Philip Murray and Chairman R. J. Thomas of the union's housing committee made public a letter to Senator Tobey (R.-N. H.), chairman of the Senate banking committee, pledging support to the Wagner-Ellender-Taft housing bill.

This measure aims to encourage the building of 15,000,000 city and rural homes in the next 10 years through private enterprise and federal aid. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and Fiorello LaGuardia, former mayor of New York, were invited to give their views on it at today's committee session.

"Crowding and doubling up have grown worse during the past year," Murray and Thomas said. "The worst sufferers are those who have had to seek dwellings, notably war workers and veterans. Their plight is even more desperate than a year ago."

They suggested that the bill be amended to permit federal insurance of 100 per cent of loans for private rental or cooperative projects at 3 per cent interest, and federal loans covering 100 per cent of the starting costs for manufacturers who want to go in for prefabricated housing.

In parts of 34 of England's 40 counties, thousands were being evacuated to crowded refugee centers.

The effects on industry remained unassessed, but reports to the Ministry of Agriculture indicated the biggest farming disaster in years, presenting a new crisis to a nation spending critically needed borrowed dollars to import food.

Sheep, Cattle Drown

Tens of thousands of sheep and cattle had drowned, adding to the toll of 3,000,000 killed under heavy snows in Britain's worst winter.

Most of the winter wheat crop was lost on tens of thousands of flooded acres of rich land, "now unlikely to be fit for cultivation for many months. Spring sowing of other urgently needed crops was put weeks behind schedule.

In the Fenlands—a marshy area in the east and Britain's richest agricultural section—the entire potato crop had been destroyed and 40,000 acres of wheat-producing soil had been ruined.

The ministry of fuel and power said floods had slowed the movement of coal to industries in the west midlands and Yorkshire. Only about a dozen mines were cut off entirely from both rail and highway outlets, however, and none was entirely out of production, the ministry said.

Thames River Drops

Although flood conditions worsened in most areas, the Thames river in the southeast dropped two inches during the night and flood waters began receding, leaving great layers of slimy mud.

A man caught a five-pound pike in a dog racing stadium in Ipswich, in eastern England.

Flood waters remained in the province of Saxony, in the Soviet zone of Germany.

At Bremen, a roaring crest of water and ice swept away all bridges over the river Weser and the city was split in two. Engineers were erecting an emergency bridge. Farm land near Bremen was under water.

Rumors have been circulating lately of possible violence between Communists and Rightists in France, and there have been disturbing though unconfirmed reports of vast stores of arms hidden away by civilians unto the day when the call should come.

Minister of the Interior Edouard Depreaux now confirms that there are concealed weapons "nearly everywhere" in the country and that most of them apparently are in Leftist hands, although some accounts published abroad have been greatly exaggerated. He declares that the government is determined to seize all these hoarded arms, although he doesn' explain how this delicate and far reaching operation will be carried out.

There we have another phase of the Communist expansion which finally has resulted in America's new world policy. Ever since the war ended, France has been sitting on a volcano, and many observers believe the reason there hasn't been a violent eruption before this is because the Communists have made such progress that they have had hopes of getting full control of the country without resorting to extreme measures. The Reds currently constitute the largest party, having barely edged out the middle-of-the-road Popular Republican movement.

The story starts long before the war. Early in Stalin's regime the Communists established powerful cells in France, especially in the great industrial district about Paris. By the time the conflict broke the party membership was heavy, it being said that there were a million Communists in the environs of the capital alone.

Thrives on Despair

When the Hitlerites overran the hapless country the Communists dove underground and joined the other Free French in fighting the enemy. Throughout the occupation they continued intensive organization of their cells, and carried Red indoctrination into every nook and cranny. It is a truism that Communism thrives on despair, and many folks who had been opposed to the Red isms finally decided to give it a trial to see if it would bring them relief from their overwhelming burdens.

So with the coming of peace the Communists centered their efforts on a political drive rather than on the direct action of Bolshevism. They have had sufficient success so that France has become the main base of Communism in western Europe. It is widely believed that after the Comintern, or Third International, was "abolished" in Moscow as a gesture of amity towards the other allies, it was reestablished sub-rosa in Paris. This general staff for "world revolution" is said by many observers to be continuing its global direction of the Communist crusade.

Potentially Dangerous

That's the present status— excepting for those rumors of possible violence. The best one can say for such reports is that an active volcano always is potentially dangerous. We are reminded of this by the present situation in French Indo-China where the Paris Government is trying to suppress a rebellion said to be inspired by Communists. Yesterday the French National Assembly accorded Premier Ramadier a vote of confidence on his Indo-China policy, but the Communists refused to vote, declaring that the government should come to terms with the colonial regime. Today Ramadier acted to force a showdown with the Reds in the Assembly later this week.

Despite the political stalemate in France, and the grave economic position, things are looking a bit brighter to the average citizen. Folk are more optimistic about the prospects of recovery, and are hopeful that France may resume her position again as a power, even if she hasn't her old strength. They are bent on combatting the dire prediction made by Field Marshal Smuts, prime minister of the Union of South Africa, in a speech in London on November 25, 1943, when the war was very black.

Smuts declared that at the end of hostilities "three of the five great powers of Europe will have disappeared" — meaning France, Italy and Germany. He added that Russia then would be "mistress of the continent."

experience trying to transmit a distress call.

"At 12:15 a. m., on March 12, there were two terrific concussions, as if we had been rammed," he related. "I was thrown from my bunk and my head hit a bulkhead.

"I heard Captain Mahoney (Capt. Richard Mahoney of Corpus Christi, Tex.) yell 'Get up, Sparks, the ship's parted, try to get out an SOS.'"

The radioman stumbled to the radio room and found the antennas had been carried away with the the stern section. His regular radio was useless. Three attempts to transmit with an emergency transmitter failed.

"There was one more chance—a small emergency transmitter for a lifeboat," Wiehr said. "But the batteries were too far gone. We had to figure out something else."

Sanford Rogers, the chief steward of White Plains, Mo., carried the transmitter up to the chartroom, Wiehr said, where it was rigged to batteries from the direction finder.

By 4 a. m., Wiehr sent out his first SOS, and kept it up at intermittent periods all day and night, careful to conserve his scanty power supply.

"Then the miracle occurred," Wiehr said. "We hadn't known whether our SOS calls had been heard. But a big plane suddenly appeared, circled over us and dropped a couple of liferafts. And about two hours later the General Gordon and the freighter St. John's Victory showed up.

"Man, what a relief!"

Twenty-two men still were adrift on the stern section. These were taken off by a navy vessel which was proceeding toward Honolulu, some 1,100 miles to the southeast.

But a life boat with 12 or 13 men aboard has not been seen since. Survivors arriving here felt these men perished.

Despite the political stalemate in France, and the grave economic position, things are looking a bit brighter to the average citizen. Folk are more optimistic about the prospects of recovery, and are hopeful that France may resume her position again as a power, even if she hasn't her old strength. They are bent on combatting the dire prediction made by Field Marshal Smuts, prime minister of the Union of South Africa, in a speech in London on November 25, 1943, when the war was very black.

Smuts declared that at the end of hostilities "three of the five great powers of Europe will have disappeared" — meaning France, Italy and Germany. He added that Russia then would be "mistress of the continent."

experience trying to transmit a distress call.

"At 12:15 a. m., on March 12, there were two terrific concussions, as if we had been rammed," he related. "I was thrown from my bunk and my head hit a bulkhead.

"I heard Captain Mahoney (Capt. Richard Mahoney of Corpus Christi, Tex.) yell 'Get up, Sparks, the ship's parted, try to get out an SOS.'"

The radioman stumbled to the radio room and found the antennas had been carried away with the the stern section. His regular radio was useless. Three attempts to transmit with an emergency transmitter failed.

"There was one more chance—a small emergency transmitter for a lifeboat," Wiehr said. "But the batteries were too far gone. We had to figure out something else."

Sanford Rogers, the chief steward of White Plains, Mo., carried the transmitter up to the chartroom, Wiehr said, where it was rigged to batteries from the direction finder.

By 4 a. m., Wiehr sent out his first SOS, and kept it up at intermittent periods all day and night, careful to conserve his scanty power supply.

"Then the miracle occurred," Wiehr said. "We hadn't known whether our SOS calls had been heard. But a big plane suddenly appeared, circled over us and dropped a couple of liferafts. And about two hours later the General Gordon and the freighter St. John's Victory showed up.

"Man, what a relief!"

Twenty-two men still were adrift on the stern section. These were taken off by a navy vessel which was proceeding toward Honolulu, some 1,100 miles to the southeast.

But a life boat with 12 or 13 men aboard has not been seen since. Survivors arriving here felt these men perished.

Quaker Asks Bard Students Work for Peace in World

Annandale-on-Hudson, March 20 —Bard College students were asked Tuesday night to devote their summer vacations to the promotion of international peace. The request was made by Robert Lyon of the Quakers' American Friends Service Committee. A great number of opportunities were presented by Mr. Lyon for volunteer work "to relieve human suffering and to increase good will and understanding among men" both in this country and abroad.

This summer, for the first time, experienced students will work in Quaker camps in Italy, Finland, and Poland, to help in reconstruction. In this country and in Mexico, Mr. Lyon said, programs will be carried out for student work in schools, hospitals, mental institutions, reformatories and communities. Inter-racial work camps will be organized in both Tennessee and Virginia, and students' "Peace Caravans" will go on speaking tours in the interest of peace.

After having delivered his talk before a large audience at Bard College, Mr. Lyon answered the question of one of the students by saying that for some projects, such as work in institutions, there would be regular salaries, but that for other projects there would be fees up to $125.

The American Friends Service Committee represents the Religious Society of Friends, and is conducting programs of relief and reconstruction in foreign countries, and projects of race relations, community rehabilitation and peace education in the U. S. It was established in 1917 "to provide a way in which people who could not conscientiously accept the method of violence might serve in the cause of peace in the midst of war."

The American Friends Service Committee is located at 20 South Twelfth street, Philadelphia 7, Pa.

Three Cases Settled Before Court Starts

The negligence action brought by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Gottilly of Milton against the town of Marlborough and Calvin Staples, Jr., town road superintendent, to recover for injuries which Mrs. Gottilly suffered when she stepped in a hole on Church street last October, was announced as settled at the opening of Supreme Court this morning.

A negligence action brought by Lauren S. Dunn, as administrator etc., against Muriel Guerrera, was also announced settled.

An action to recover penalty brought by Franklin Stevens against Emma G. Coutant, was also settled.

An action for breach of contract by Max Millens and others against Sterling O. Baker was taken up for trial before a jury. The action involves the amount of damages which plaintiffs are entitled to recover for an alleged breach of contract involving the sale of iron from the former Barmann Brewery which Mr. Baker razed. The Millens firm had a contract with Baker to buy the iron from the building at stated prices. I beams were to be sold to them for $20 a ton and other iron at $12.50 per ton. Millens, who advanced Baker $1,750 to get the contract, seeks to recover prospective profits which might have accrued. It is alleged the I beams had a sale value of $50 a ton and the other iron $15. The only question for the jury is what the amount of damages is. Justice Bergan has previously ruled that the contract was breached and left only the question of damages to be assessed by the jury. Abraham Streifer appears for the plaintiff and Floyd W. Powell, by James Plunkett, appears for defendant.

Transportation Begins On Hudson River

Transportation on the Hudson river, delayed last week because of ice conditions, is currently under way, local boatmen reported today.

Two Dwyer Brothers dry cargo barges and one oil barge arrived from New York Wednesday and docked in the Rondout creek and the Cornell Steamboat Company reported the arrival of brick barges from New York at their docks.

The first tow of the season from the South Rondout dock of the Callanan Road Improvement Company, left late last night for New York. The tow carried a cargo of crushed stone.

Ulster Rates High In Egg Production

County Is First Among 5 State Leaders, 38th in U. S.

Ulster county ranked first among the five leading counties of New York state and 38th among the 100 leading egg-producing counties in the nation according to a report from the 1945 census of agriculture issued by J. C. Capt, director of the Bureau of Census.

Ulster produced 5,566,853 dozen for 1944 while the five state counties totaled 23,699,765. This was about 20 per cent of the state total of 120,943,614 dozen for 1944. New York's production was about four per cent of the national total of 3,370,069,577 dozen.

Sullivan county follows Ulster in 39th for the national ranking with 5,403,357 dozen. Erie county had 4,405,434 for 66th, Chenango had 4,316,206 for 72 in the grouping and Otsego produce 1 4,007,915 for 89th position.

but that an appeal from the O.P.A. ruling is pending in Washington "where it has been kicking around for a year."

Block said he would not make such a concession. The court ruled that Noonan could call any witness he chose to bring out such evidence and asked Block to make available to the defense attorney all O.P.A. records dealing with the matter.

James C. Higgins, freight traffic manager for the New York, Ontario and Western Railway Company, was called as a government witness today for the purpose of fixing the date in September, 1943, when Gottfried first undertook negotiations to install a siding at the Ellenville plant, with respect to a proposal Gottfried had made to the War Department to convert the plant into a freezer storage warehouse for use by the armed services.

Miss McTigue Testifies

Miss Emma McTigue former secretary to Forman, testified as a government witness Tuesday that Gottfried had dictated a letter in Forman's office August 2, 1943, addressed to the O.P.A. in Washington, D. C., and explaining why it was necessary for the Pure Rock Co., to obtain more sugar to manufacture products.

She testified that as Gottfried was dictating the letter Forman and George Long, manager of the company, entered the office. Both Gottfried and Forman denied on the stand that Gottfried had dictated a letter.

A letter entered as an exhibit showed, however, that initials in the lower left corner were "HDG" as a dictator and "EM" as a secretary's.

Higley Dam Project Is Held in Abeyance

Albany, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—Governor Dewey's administration was ready today to oppose any attempt to construct the proposed Higley Mountain dam in the Adirondacks pending completion of a "thorough" state investigation into the project.

Assembly Speaker Oswald D. Heck yesterday disclosed state plans to study "all the ramifications of the flood control and water power program, and its effect upon the forest preserve."

Heck said the inquiry would be ordered by Governor Dewey.

The state action follows defeat by the Assembly of a bill which would have prohibited building the proposed $2,500,000 dam and reservoir on the south branch of the Moose river in the central Adirondacks.

The project, sponsored by the Black River Regulating District, has been opposed by conservationists and sportsmen's groups who are against further inroads into the state's forest preserve.

Has 1,000 Bills

Meanwhile, Governor Dewey, dispensing with the usual post-Legislature vacation, waded into more than 1,000 bills sent to him by the Senate and Assembly before final adjournment yesterday morning.

The governor has 30 days in which to act upon the measures. If he neither signs or vetoes a bill during the 30 days following the adjournment of the lawmakers, it dies automatically. Dewey already has signed 204 bills into law.

Bills awaiting action by the governor were described by his office as slightly less in volume than last year, but more important in content.

One of the most controversial measures is the Condon-Wadlin bill banning strikes by public employes. It is expected that Dewey will sign the bill, which he supported, despite vigorous opposition of labor and civil service groups.

The belief that some species of snake have poisoned horns on their tails is false.

Parachute Is Used By Valley Breeders

For the first time in the history of the rapidly growing artificial breeding movement bull sperm has been delivered by parachute at the destination.

The Rondout Co-operative Bull Association delivered Tuesday semen from the famous Holstein bull, General Rag Apple Posch, to the New York Artificial Breeders Co-operative in Ithaca.

The plane took off from Accord airfield at 7 a. m., with Steven Taussig, the manager of the association, aboard and piloted by Sven Olsen of New Paltz.

In spite of heavy headwinds and snowstorms en route the plane arrived in Ithaca and dropped the parcel on the ground of the central co-operative.

In less than an hour the semen was reprocessed and distributed and sent out to 90 inseminaters in all parts of New York state as well as Vermont. The next day several hundred cows in this territory were inseminated.

Pinnist Praises Castor

Eugene Istomin, concert pianist, whose performance was well received at the Cooperative Concert Monday evening at the high school auditorium, praised Gene Castor, piano technician and concert tuner for the splendid tuning that was done on the Baldwin Concert grand piano three hours before the concert. The Roger Baer Studios, which furnished the piano, thanks the Baldwin Company and Van Etten & Hogan for the service of delivery to and from New York city.

The governor has 30 days in which to act upon the measures. If he neither signs or vetoes a bill during the 30 days following the adjournment of the lawmakers, it dies automatically. Dewey already has signed 204 bills into law.

Bills awaiting action by the governor were described by his office as slightly less in volume than last year, but more important in content.

One of the most controversial measures is the Condon-Wadlin bill banning strikes by public employes. It is expected that Dewey will sign the bill, which he supported, despite vigorous opposition of labor and civil service groups.

The belief that some species of snake have poisoned horns on their tails is false.

Parachute Is Used By Valley Breeders

For the first time in the history of the rapidly growing artificial breeding movement bull sperm has been delivered by parachute at the destination.

The Rondout Co-operative Bull Association delivered Tuesday semen from the famous Holstein bull, General Rag Apple Posch, to the New York Artificial Breeders Co-operative in Ithaca.

The plane took off from Accord airfield at 7 a. m., with Steven Taussig, the manager of the association, aboard and piloted by Sven Olsen of New Paltz.

In spite of heavy headwinds and snowstorms en route the plane arrived in Ithaca and dropped the parcel on the ground of the central co-operative.

In less than an hour the semen was reprocessed and distributed and sent out to 90 inseminaters in all parts of New York state as well as Vermont. The next day several hundred cows in this territory were inseminated.

Pianist Praises Castor

Eugene Istomin, concert pianist, whose performance was well received at the Cooperative Concert Monday evening at the high school auditorium, praised Gene Castor, piano technician and concert tuner for the splendid tuning that was done on the Baldwin Concert grand piano three hours before the concert. The Roger Baer Studios, which furnished the piano, thanks the Baldwin Company and Van Etten & Hogan for the service of delivery to and from New York city.

K.A.A. Testimonial For Rose Schatzel Will Feature Jimmy Powers

Sports Group to Honor City's Famous Keglerette on April 7

The Kingston Athletic Association will tender a testimonial dinner to Mrs. Rose Schatzel, Kingston's famous woman bowler, on Monday, April 7, with Jimmy Powers, the New York Daily News' renowned sports columnist as principal speaker, it was decided at last night's monthly meeting of the sports group at the Elks Club.

President Thomas Davitt said today that the Chamber of Commerce, the Kingston Bowling Association and the Kingston Women's Bowling Association will be invited to cooperate in staging the testimonial. The place will be decided later.

The Kingston Daily Freeman also will join in paying tribute to the local sharpshooter who starts a momentous 20-game match against Ann Karrer, of Philadelphia, Saturday night at the Central Recreation alleys at 8 o'clock.

Powers Accepts

Jimmy Powers, who was unable to attend the recent Hot Stove League dinner sponsored by the K.A.A., readily accepted the invitation for the Schatzel testimonial. Arrangements were completed through Al Cirillo, bowling editor of the Daily News who is well known in Kingston.

"Although bowling is out of our normal sphere of activities," President Davitt said, "we feel nevertheless that Mrs. Schatzel deserves a real sendoff for her trip to Grand Rapids. Her great bowling accomplishments have brought personal glory to her and much favorable publicity to the City of Kingston. We are happy to do our share to promote interest in any type of athletics.

DUSO Champs Guests

The Kingston High School 1947 DUSO basketball championship squad also will attend the testimonial as special guests of the Association.

The K.A.A. members also decided to award a trophy to the winning team in the forthcoming city grade school basketball tournament at the M.J.M. gym. The tournament will be conducted by Russ Cunningham, assistant football coach at K.H.S. who is in charge of the grade school athletic programs.

Other items that were discussed last night were plans for the formation of a summer junior baseball league to be operated by veteran ball players assigned by the K.A.A. as coaches, the second reading of the constitution and by-laws of the club, and a report on the basketballs donated to the public and parochial schools of the city by Montgomery Ward's through arrangements made by the K.A.A. The Elks Club was extended a vote of thanks for use of the building as a meeting place for the club.

The program concluded with the showing of boxing films taken at a recent B'nai B'rith card by Dr. Murray Greene.

Looks Like Yanks Will Lack Power Without DiMaggio

Tampa, Fla., March 20 (AP)—It has been 22 years since a Yankee ball club finished in the second division of the American League, but those who have been studying Bucky Harris' team the closest this spring say it might easily happen again if Joe DiMaggio's operated-upon heel doesn't begin to mend in a hurry.

Without their star centerfield, it now becomes painfully apparent, the Yanks are not going very far. Unless the ailing Joe gets into their line-up early in the season they are likely to drop far behind such powerhouses as Boston and Detroit and might easily find themselves taking the dust of several other outfits.

For the first time since anyone can recall, the Bombers didn't have a .300 hitter last year, and unless DiMaggio can return to something approaching his pre-war form they have only a slight prospect of producing any real power in the coming race.

She Knows Her Football

Three Kingston Boxers Winners In Albany Meet

Three Kingston boxers—Tom "Tiger" Davis, Charles Ray and Mike DiMicco—advanced to the semi-finals of the Vincentian Institute boxing tournament last night in Albany.

Two other Kingston ear scramblers, Barney Emberson and Dave Brandon, drew byes and will appear in tonight's bracket.

"Tiger" Davis, 158, Kingston, kept his great winning streak rolling with a clean cut decision over Bill Smrtic, 160, Gloversville.

Charles Ray, 164, this city, outpointed Pete Gerber, 160, Troy, in three rounds, while Mike DiMicco, 159, a Kingston novice, won over Dick Tuttle, 158, Gloversville, in three rounds.

Armstrong Leads Group

The Kingston delegation was handled by "Monk" Armstrong and Richard Boggs. Several members of the Armstrong stable will appear on the next B'nai B'rith card on Thursday, March 27.

Feature of the next local card is a light heavyweight duel between sensational Al Hurlibut of Rome, N. Y., and Johnny Marchese, of Buffalo, the Niagara district champion.

Another standout duel brings together Roosevelt Flagg, popular Albany featherweight, and classy Frankie Bifilco, Buffalo southpaw who fought a rousing battle against Carmine Virgilio several weeks ago.

Trophy Is Voted

Boston, March 20 (AP)—Milt Schmidt, the Boston Bruins star center, today was voted the Elizabeth Dufresne trophy by the Boston hockey writers. It is awarded annually to the Bruin player whose performances have been the most outstanding during the club's National Hockey League home games.

Better Bowling

BY BILLY SIXTY

SHOULDER FOLLOW It was easy for Frank Justin of Lake Geneva, Wis., to correct a flaw in his bowling form during a practice session we had, because he had been a major golf competitor.

His trouble was premature right shoulder action.

In golf the right shoulder follows in after the clubhead. To turn the shoulder into a golf shot too quickly causes the clubhead to cut across the ball and produces a slice.

Hurrying the swing of the bowling ball is a common fault caused by one of two things: Trying to throw an unnaturally speedy ball, or desire to apply wrist action (hook) on the ball.

Justin had hook trouble—premature wrist turn that forced the shoulder around ahead of the ball. I had only to explain that the ball must be permitted to swing freely, like a pendulum, and that the right shoulder must be STATIONARY during the swing, to put him into sound stride.

When the arm is permitted to swing without PULL or jerk, you get the feeling that the action is slow, and especially so when the ball passes the right hip. The only feeling at all in the right shoulder is a little pull as the ball swings through—a tug that signals the shoulder to follow.

In this way the arm swings in a groove for control.

Melton Has Injury

Cristobal, March 20 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' Rube Melton is going to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore for examination and possible removal of a bone chip in his elbow. And there is a possibility Pete Reiser might make a trip too. President Branch Rickey is in favor of having the outfielder go to see his St. Louis doctor immediately after the Brooks fly to Havana. Reiser hurt his shoulder again in practice Tuesday.

K.A.A. Testimonial For Rose Schatzel Will Feature Jimmy Powers

Sports Group to Honor City's Famous Keglerette on April 7

The Kingston Athletic Association will tender a testimonial dinner to Mrs. Rose Schatzel, Kingston's famous woman bowler, on Monday, April 7, with Jimmy Powers, the New York Daily News' renowned sports columnist as principal speaker, it was decided at last night's monthly meeting of the sports group at the Elks Club.

President Thomas Davitt said today that the Chamber of Commerce, the Kingston Bowling Association and the Kingston Women's Bowling Association will be invited to cooperate in staging the testimonial. The place will be decided later.

The Kingston Daily Freeman also will join in paying tribute to the local sharpshooter who starts a momentous 20-game match against Ann Karrer, of Philadelphia, Saturday night at the Central Recreation alleys at 8 o'clock.

Powers Accepts

Jimmy Powers, who was unable to attend the recent Hot Stove League dinner sponsored by the K.A.A., readily accepted the invitation for the Schatzel testimonial. Arrangements were completed through Al Cirillo, bowling editor of the Daily News who is well known in Kingston.

"Although bowling is out of our normal sphere of activities," President Davitt said, "we feel nevertheless that Mrs. Schatzel deserves a real sendoff for her trip to Grand Rapids. Her great bowling accomplishments have brought personal glory to her and much favorable publicity to the City of Kingston. We are happy to do our share to promote interest in any type of athletics.

DUSO Champs Guests

The Kingston High School 1947 DUSO basketball championship squad also will attend the testimonial as special guests of the Association.

The K.A.A. members also decided to award a trophy to the winning team in the forthcoming city grade school basketball tournament at the M.J.M. gym. The tournament will be conducted by Russ Cunningham, assistant football coach at K.H.S. who is in charge of the grade school athletic programs.

Other items that were discussed last night were plans for the formation of a summer junior baseball league to be operated by veteran ball players assigned by the K.A.A. as coaches, the second reading of the constitution and by-laws of the club, and a report on the basketballs donated to the public and parochial schools of the city by Montgomery Ward's through arrangements made by the K.A.A. The Elks Club was extended a vote of thanks for use of the building as a meeting place for the club.

The program concluded with the showing of boxing films taken at a recent B'nai B'rith card by Dr. Murray Greene.

Looks Like Yanks Will Lack Power Without DiMaggio

Tampa, Fla., March 20 (AP)—It has been 22 years since a Yankee ball club finished in the second division of the American League, but those who have been studying Bucky Harris' team the closest this spring say it might easily happen again if Joe DiMaggio's operated-upon heel doesn't begin to mend in a hurry.

Without their star centerfield, it now becomes painfully apparent, the Yanks are not going very far. Unless the ailing Joe gets into their line-up early in the season they are likely to drop far behind such powerhouses as Boston and Detroit and might easily find themselves taking the dust of several other outfits.

For the first time since anyone can recall, the Bombers didn't have a .300 hitter last year, and unless DiMaggio can return to something approaching his pre-war form they have only a slight prospect of producing any real power in the coming race.

Boston, March 20 (AP)—Ursula Ullrich, 21-year-old Northeastern University co-ed, is an attractive girl to take to football games—and you'll learn some of the finer points of the sport, too. Ursula is lending a feminine touch as the only girl student enrolled in the football course at Northwestern taught by Coach Johnny Grinnell in connection with physical education program there. Majoring in sociology, Ursula thinks that a sound knowledge of football will be of invaluable assistance when she enters the social field.

Better Bowling

By BILLY SIXTY

SHOULDER FOLLOW: It was easy for Frank Justin of Lake Geneva, Wis., to correct a flaw in his bowling form during a practice session we had, because he had been a major golf competitor.

His trouble was premature right shoulder action.

In golf the right shoulder follows in after the clubhead. To turn the shoulder into a golf shot too quickly causes the clubhead to cut across the ball and produces a slice.

Hurrying the swing of the bowling ball is a common fault caused by one of two things: Trying to throw an unnaturally speedy ball, or desire to apply wrist action (hook) on the ball.

Justin had hook trouble—premature wrist turn that forced the shoulder around ahead of the ball. I had only to explain that the ball must be permitted to swing freely, like a pendulum, and that the right shoulder must be STATIONARY during the swing, to put him into sound stride.

When the arm is permitted to swing without PULL or jerk, you get the feeling that the action is slow, and especially so when the ball passes the right hip. The only feeling at all in the right shoulder is a little pull as the ball swings through—a tug that signals the shoulder to follow.

In this way the arm swings in a groove for control.

Melton Has Injury

Cristobal, March 20 (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers' Rube Melton is going to Johns Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore for examination and possible removal of a bone chip in his elbow. And there is a possibility Pete Reiser might make a trip too, President Branch Rickey is in favor of having the outfielder go to see his St. Louis doctor immediately after the Brooks fly to Havana. Reiser hurt his shoulder again in practice Tuesday.

Evelyn Francis Sets New High In Colonial League With 258

Evelyn Francis, who is making a determined bid for membership in the upper crust of Kingston's female bowling circles, strengthened her rapidly growing prestige last night with a rousing 258 single and 600 series in the Colonial Women's League.

Mrs. Francis' 258 is a new league record, eclipsing the previous mark of 248 held by Dot Rawding, while the 600 was the first in her budding career.

The hook-balling Evergreen Inn anchor was a standout in the recent Journal-American tournament in New York city with a 625 gross singles in Class A.

Evelyn's three game string—179-163-258—600—paced the Evergreens to a 3-0 triumph over the Elks Auxiliary. Evelyn Moore led off with 221-533 while Dot Flemings rolled 507. Martha Minasian's 447 led the losers.

Jansen Shoots 536

Elston's edged Reinas, 2-1, Jo Smith clicking 191-493 and Charlotte Lapine 173-464. Hungerford's 2-1 edge over Knit Mills featured Martha Kelder's 403, with Rita Markle shooting 460 for the Knit Mills.

Rose Schatzel, prepping for Ann Karrer, posted 224-538, as the Darlettes were upset, 2-1, by Chez Emile. Marg "Always 500" Jansen shot 536 and Etta Ginder 505. O'Donnell was high for Chez Emile with 510.

Reta Frederick posted 201-528 as the Mayorettes beat Arlene's, 2-1, with Helen Broskie's 481 pacing the losers. Phil Gehringer's 507 was high series in the Phelan-Cahill 2-1 win over Cuneos. Helen Zaccheo had 441 for the losers.

High Falls Juniors Rout St. Mary's

The High Falls Firemen Juniors scored an impressive 51-34 victory over St. Mary's Juniors of Kingston recently at High Falls.

Charlie Williams, High Falls center, led both squads with 22 points. L. Fuocco was high for St. Mary's with 12 points.

The boxscore:

High Falls Jrs (51) Brown f 10, W. Smith f 6, Terwilliger f 4, C. Williams c 22, Feth g, R. Smith g 2, S. Fuocco g 7.

St. Mary's (34) Oyce f 8, Conlone f 11, L. Fuocco c 12, Lyle g 1, Lay g 4.

GOTHAM GIBBERING: Joe Falcaro thinks Ann Karrer of Philadelphia will whip Rose Schatzel but the chesty one's prognostications are not shared by the rank and file of New York's bowling circles. The opinion of many of the dissenters packs authority, since they have seen both women in action, whereas Falcaro admits he never saw the Kingston queen tossing a 16-pound pineapple.

Among the tenpin cognoscenti who rate Mrs. Schatzel as highly as her famous opponent are Nick Zazzali, 42-year-old New Jersey match game kingpin; George Woodward, treasurer of the New York Bowling Association; Harry Gossett, proprietor of the Riviera Recreation, scene of the Journal-American tournament; and Tillie Taylor, the former W.I.B.C. singles champion.

HOW THEY REASON: Zazzali, who showed here with the New York Rangers, says Rose covers her spares better than any female bowler he has ever seen. On tough conditions, Mrs. Schatzel is a match for any girl in the East, the sage Zazzali thinks. Gossett, a former New Jersey ace, says Rose is even money against any woman bowler in circulation. Mr. Woodward, the silver-thatched maestro of the Rangers, believes Rose will win by a handsome margin. The finest tribute of all, however, came from Tillie Taylor, in her own right one of the nation's topflight keglers too. "Rose throws a nice ball," she told the writer, "and I wouldn't lose too much sleep worrying about her chances against Karrer."

HOW TO MAKE TEN BUCKS: Joe Doran, manager of the beautiful Rego Park establishment in Rego Park, L. I. kept the large crowd amused and the bowlers on their toes Sunday by offering money for the conversion of splits. . . . Rose Schatzel made the biggest haul—$10 for a phenomenal converson of the rare "4-6". . . . This is one of bowling's rarest shots. . . . Tall, dynamiting Ann Sabolowski, cleaned off the "4-7 9-10" for $8. Dot Flemings earned $2 for a baby split. . . . Every offer made by Doran was matched by Bob Murray, sponsor of the Murray Safe Company squad in the Met Major. . . . Mr. Murray is a wealthy man and is regarded as one of the greatest safe experts in the United States. . . . He has two sons 'working' their way through Syracuse University by opening safes. . . . Both have inherited the touch of genius that made Mr. Murray a valuable O.S.S. employe during the war. . . . Freddie Voelpel and Johnny Petrizzi are the aces on Murray's squad that will appear here at a later date. . . . We met matronly Helen Wainwright at Rego Park. . . . The former swimming great is now a bowling fanatic, completely bewildered by the inconsistency of her game.

CHESTY JOE STILL TOPS: A trek to Lawrence, L.I., where we were drafted to substitute for Whitey Munn on Joe Falcaro's A.B.C. squad which was going against a picked team from the Island in a Red Cross benefit. . . . We managed a 439 just to prove to Chesty Joe that even "farmers" can roll a decent series—now and then. . . . Falcaro led both squads with 654. . . . The Pounding Pisan retains his uncanny pocket-hitting ability. . . . He didn't have a miss and never came close to crossing the headpin in three games. . . . In a six game match he still ranks with the greatest despite his advancing years.

50Gs OR A 200 GAME???—At the Riviera, Tillie Taylor was instructing Don Dunphy, the nation's top boxing announcer. Dunphy, who averages 138, makes better than fifty thousand a year broadcasting bouts, but his greatest concern is his bowling. . . . A second-year trundler, he has all the faults of the neophyte. . . . He runs up to the foul line too fast, lacks a "lift," turns his ball to quickly, hurries his spare-shooting and tries to throw a hook that just isn't there. . . . In short, Mr. Dunphy is having an awful time trying to become a bowler, he sadly admitted. . . . There are certain vital facts in his favor, however. . . . He has plenty of time to practice and can afford several thousand lines of bowling. . . . Sooner or later, Mr. Dunphy will be a bowler. . . .

Vets and Chez Emile in Second Game of 'Y' Playoffs Tonight

Billiard Results

Julius Tellier won his fourth victory in six starts in the city pocket billiard tournament last night, defeating Stanton Warren, 125-116.

Tellier pocketed a high run of 16, with Warren clicking for 11. The loss was Warren's sixth in seven matches.

Undefeated Clifton Quick, the "dark horse" of the tourney, goes against Mynie Russell, of Saugerties, tonight at 7:30.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars basketball squad will endeavor to terminate the Y.M.C.A. Basketball League championship playoffs against the Chez Emile cagers tonight on the Y court at 7 o'clock. No preliminary game is scheduled.

The Vets won the first game of the playoffs Tuesday night, 39-25, with a terrific scoring burst in the fourth quarter. The Vets' final scoring spree broke wide open what had been a rugged defensive duel for three periods.

Manager Eddie Allen of Chez Emile announced he would make several shifts in his line-up in an effort to check the powerful scoring thrusts of the Vets. Manager Allen is concerned over the Chez Emile tendency to collapse in the final minutes of play.

Neil DuBois, manager of the Vets, says he is going to stand on his original starting lineup. If the Vets win the 1947 title, it will mark the fourth "Y" championship for Manager DuBois. He previously won the title three times with the Ramblers a great basketball powerhouse that was disbanded a few years ago.

Would Take Duck Holiday

Washington, March 20 (AP)—The national Audubon Society proposed today that hunters quit shooting ducks for one year to give the fowl a chance to restore their ranks by breeding. "This society has never opposed hunting," said John H. Baker, president of the society, in an article in Audubon magazine. "It does believe in regulation of deliberate take so that there may be no net depletion in breeding stock." Baker declared that at one typical society research station—Delta, Manitoba—the breeding waterfowl population in 1946 was off 80 to 90 per cent from 1945 but the season's kill nevertheless was the heaviest of record.

Harris May Shift Players

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 20 (AP)—Bucky Harris is considering another realignment of the New York Yankee lineup which would send Tommy Henrich to center field—a position he has never played. Henrich is sidelined with strained chest muscles but will be okay in a few days. He has batted .339 against major league teams this spring. With Lawrence (Yogi) Berra firmly planted in right field and George McQuinn doing a fine job at first base, the only spot for Henrich seems to be center field. This would sideline Johnny Lindell.

Titan Hanover Is Entered

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—Titan Hanover, holder of major records for two and three-year-old trotters, has been entered in the Goldsmith Maid Stake at Saratoga raceway this summer. The stake will be run during the first week of Grand Circuit racing starting July 7. The trotter, owned by E. R. Roland Harriman and Elbridge T. Gerry of New York city, now is preparing for the $50,000 Golden West Trot at Hollywood Park, Calif.

Peters Is Captain

Syracuse, N. Y., March 20 (AP)—Roy Peters of Schenectady will captain the Syracuse University basketball team for a second season. Peters, a guard, was re-elected yesterday.

The second block is slated for 2 p. m. Sunday, followed by a women's match between Kaye Sportwair and Hudson.

High Falls Cagers Blast Rosendale

Powered by Charlie Williams and Don Schoonmaker, the High Falls Firemen routed Rosendale, 53-27, for another victory in the traditional series.

The Fallsmen ran up a 24-13 edge in the first half and were never seriously challenged. Williams, one of the top scorers in the area, scored 24 points on twelve deuces, while Schoonmaker tossed in seven baskets.

Connell was high scorer for Rosendale with eight markers.

High Falls Juniors edged the Rosendale Juniors, 31-26, in the preliminary, after a 13-13 deadlock at the half. Walker scored 22 points for Rosendale, with Johnny Berg, of High Falls, accounting for 11 points.

The scores:

High Falls Firemen (53)—Williams f 24, Schoonmaker f 14, Decker c 3, Barringer g 7, Popple g 4, Sutton g, Burger g 1.

Rosendale (27) — Connell f 8, Kelder f 6, Myers c 5, Corrigan g 6, Hughes g 2, Lippert g, Whitman g.

High Falls Juniors (31)—Terwilliger f 5, Brown f 2, McCardle f 8, Berg c 11, Fuocco g 5, Feth g.

Rosendale Juniors (26)—Dikoletich f 2, Walker f 22, Busbaum c 2, Hill g, Kuhn g.

Eastern Playoffs Begin

New York, March 20 (AP)—Kentucky and Utah, beginning a four-day vacation before clashing in the finals of the National Invitation Basketball Tournament, turn Madison Square Garden over to another group of classy collegians tonight for the opening round of eastern regional playoffs in the N.C.A.A. Tourney. The N.C.A.A. eliminations send Navy against Holy Cross in the first game at 8 p. m. (E.S.T) with Wisconsin's Big Nine champions tangling with City College of New York at approximately 9:45.

1,550 Dogs to Compete

Chicago, March 20 (AP)—A total of 1,550 dogs—an all-time high entry list—will compete in Chicago's All-Breed Kennel Show March 29 and 30, in the International Amphitheater, officials of the International Kennel Club announced today. Last year's total was 1,362. Cockers will be judged by Mrs. Geraldine Rockefeller Dodge, Madison, N. J., and Dachshunds by Laurence A. Horswell, Long Island, N. Y.

Angsman Signs Contract

Chicago, March 20 (AP)—Elmer Angsman, former Notre Dame backfield star who last season made his professional debut with the Chicago Cardinals of the National Football League, has signed his new Cardinal contract, Owner Charles W. Bidwell announced today. Angsman led the league's ball carriers in average gain per attempt last season with a mark of 6.8 yards.

Peace Reports

Asuncion, Paraguay, March 20 (AP)—Despite government denials, reports persisted in Asuncion today that peace negotiations were in progress between government forces and rebellious troops which since March 6 have seized much of northern Paraguay. President Higinio Morinigo's government said the only military action yesterday in the wild, rough country consisted of patrolling. Well-posted informants said a blockade of the Paraguay river was keeping the rebels short of riverborne supplies.

Central Hudson Appeal Is Denied

Would Bring in Two Men as Defendants

A motion of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation for leave to appeal to the Court of Appeals from an order previously affirming an order of the special term denying the motion of the corporation to bring in Chester A. Miller and Florian Tischhauser as party defendants in the action, has been unanimously denied by the Appellate Division, Third Department.

Plaintiff, Utica Mutual Insurance Company, has commenced an action against the Electric Corporation to recover moneys paid by it to the estate of Raymond J. Glass because of the death of Mr. Glass who was killed while in the employ of Chester A. Miller on the Tischhauser estate at Rifton.

It is claimed by the Utica Mutual that the accident was caused by the negligence of the Corporation in that it negligently installed and maintained electrical equipment on an electric light pole on the Tischhauser property

Local Firm's Tug Damaged by Fire Wednesday Night

Damage to the Reliance Marine Transportation Corp., tug "Feeney Girls" as a result of a fire late last night in its engine room was described today as "substantial" by Bernard Feeney, manager of the firm at 615 Abeel street.

Both Feeney and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said they believed the blaze, which was discovered shortly after 11 p. m., originated in or near the craft's oil burner.

Chief Murphy said that an inspection after the fire indicated that the blaze started in the flooring and Feeney said it appeared as though the oil burner either stuck or backfired.

Firemen confined the blaze to the engine room but were forced to remove portions of decking, flooring and switchboard paneling in fighting the flames. Water was pumped from the creek.

Praises Captain

Chief Murphy this morning praised Capt. Fred Godfrey of Fort Edward, who had charge of the tug and other craft docked near it. Godfrey, the chief said, was of valuable assistance in guiding the firemen through dense smoke in their efforts to check the fire.

The fire was raging to such an extent when the firemen arrived, the chief said, that it was a matter of only "a few minutes more and we would have lost the boat."

A member of the crew on a tow of the Callanan Road Improvement Company discovered the fire as the tow was passing the Feeney dock. He notified Fire Commissioner Edward Ryan, a watchman at the dock of the Christie Scow Corp., who relayed the call to the fire station.

An alarm was sounded at Box 3641 at about the same time of the telephone alarm. Engines from Central and Cornell stations and the truck from Wiltwyck station responded. The recall was sounded at 12:57 a. m.

Earlier Wednesday firemen checked two grass fires, one at 12:26 p. m. at Hudson and Spruce streets and the other at 5:50 p. m. in back of the Fuller shirt factory.

Cargoes of glass objects were often carried by ancient Phoenician merchant sailors.

Acheson Says Help

der Secretary of State Acheson, saying "speed is of the essence," insisted today that bolstering Greece and Turkey against Communist aggression cannot wait for United Nations action.

He told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that the situation of the two Mediterranean nations is so serious that the United States must act alone, but assured the lawmakers:

"We are giving serious consideration and study to ways in which the United Nations may take hold of this problem after the present emergency is passed."

Acheson outlined the administration's position as the House group began hearings on President Truman's request for authority to send $400,000,000 and limited military aid to Greece and Turkey.

He did not mention Russia by name but commented that if the Greek-Turkish problem was put up to the United Nations it might run into a veto.

Acheson ran into a barrage of questions when he completed reading a prepared statement to the committee.

Rep. Vorys (R.-Ohio) asked for a break-down on how the $400,000,000 proposed for Greece and Turkey would be spent.

Acheson said $275,000,000 to $300,000,000 would be for Greek needs and $100,000,000 to $125,000,000 for the Turks.

"Would they be loans or grants?" Vorys pursued.

"That matter, I think, should be left in the hands of the president," Acheson replied. "My strong recommendation to the president would be that all these funds used for non-wealth producing purposes and military purposes should not be loans."

Demands to Know

Rep. Mundt (R.-S D.) demanded to know whether there were any agreements made at Yalta or Potsdam that still remain secret.

"The Yalta conference brought together the late President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill. At Potsdam the "Big Three" were President Truman, Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee."

The undersecretary responded that so far as he knows they have all been made public but promised to look into that point further and report to the committee.

Mundt commented:

"That's very important—that you say categorically that there are none, or if there are any to tell Congress why they can not be made public now."

"I shall be very glad to do that," Acheson said.

Terming the proposed aid to Greece and Turkey "ideological warfare," Mundt asserted that American Communists will attempt to "plant some of their people" among American missions and "try to sabotage the effort."

To Offer Amendment

He served notice that he would offer an amendment to have the F.B.I. "screen" all persons assigned to such missions.

Vorys inquired whether the State Department had known about the situation in Greece only three weeks.

"The general situation in Greece has been known in the department for the last 20 years," Acheson remarked.

A titter ran through the big hearing room, crowded with spectators.

"What is new about it," Acheson went on, "is that we were informed by the British government on February 24, in a note dated February 21, that they would have to discontinue financial aid at the end of the fiscal year, which is March 31."

Rep. Jonkman (R.-Mich.) asked why the United Nations could not undertake to assure Turkey's international integrity.

"If you were a Turk," Acheson replied dryly, "you would observe that the United Nations has not any armed forces and you would hesitate to put your reliance upon it."

Blows Are Exchanged By Cuban Senators

Havana, Cuba, March 20 (AP)—Two Cuban senators exchanged blows last night in the capital building in a dispute over Charles (Lucky) Luciano while the former New York vice trafficker was aboard a Turkish ship to sail for his second deportation to his native Italy.

The senatorial fighters were Eduardo R. Chibas and Francisco Prio Socarras, brother of Prime Minister Carlos Prio Socarras. They twice came to blows, but were separated by friends before damage was done.

Chibas had charged in a radio address Sunday that a brother of the prime minister was trying to secure permission for Luciano to remain in Cuba, despite President Ramon Grau San Martin's deportation order.

Witnesses said the senators used only their fists and that no pistol was drawn. One encounter started when Francisco Prio Socarras slapped Chibas. Later Chibas retaliated in the Senate chamber by striking the other, disrupting the Senate's business. In a secret session, the Senate appointed a commission to confer with the two to avoid further incidents.

Luciano was taken aboard the Turkish ship Bakir last night by Interior Minister Alfred Pequeno, who has had custody of the gangster since his arrest Feb. 22. The ship was booked to sail for Genoa.

The order expelling Luciano from Cuba was signed after the United States prohibited narcotics shipments to the island because of Luciano's presence in Havana. The ban was lifted after the expulsion order was signed and Luciano was confined to Tiscornia immigration camp.

The former New York panderer had been pardoned by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey early last year from a 30-50 year sentence for compulsory prostitution and deported to Italy.

Stiff Fight Ahead Against Tax Bill

Engel Leads Party Revolt Against Move by Rep. Knutson

Washington, March 20 (AP)—Democrats and a group of rebellious Republicans today promised a stiff House fight against the Knutson tax cutting bill despite a move toward revisions giving greater percentage relief to small taxpayers.

Rep. Engel (R.-Mich.), leading a party revolt against the measure by Rep. Knutson (R.-Minn.), slashing income taxes 20 per cent across the board, told reporters, "it still would be a rich man's bill" even with the proposed changes.

"I plan to take the fight to the House floor," he said.

Democratic members of the tax-framing Ways and Means committee which Knutson heads indicated the revisions will not alter their opposition. President Truman has asked Congress to apply any treasury surpluses to debt reduction instead of tax cuts.

Republican Ways and Means members called a huddle today to discuss a plan to give more than a 20 per cent cut to persons with taxable income (gross income minus personal exemptions), up to $1,000 or perhaps $2,000. They are considering a possible cut of 23 or 26 per cent for these lower income brackets.

Knutson said the full committee's showdown vote will come tomorrow. The G.O.P. leadership plans to call a conference of all House Republicans the same day to test out sentiment on tax cutting.

The bill probably will come to a vote in the House late next week.

Rep. Keating (R.-N.Y.), told reporters the proposed revisions "do not go far enough" in aiding small taxpayers, but said they probably would lessen some of the opposition in Republican ranks to a straight "across the board" cut.

Teams Up With Stork

Norman, Okla., (AP)—Jack Matlock, electrical engineering student at the University of Oklahoma, startled fellow students when he announced the stork had brought him five more mouths to feed. After receiving hearty congratulations, he explained his wife had presented him with twins—and at the same time his canary hatched three little peepsters.

Local Firm's Tug Damaged by Fire Wednesday Night

Damage to the Reliance Marine Transportation Corp., tug "Feeney Girls" as a result of a fire late last night in its engine room was described today as "substantial" by Bernard Feeney, manager of the firm at 615 Abeel street.

Both Feeney and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy said they believed the blaze, which was discovered shortly after 11 p. m., originated in or near the craft's oil burner.

Chief Murphy said that an inspection after the fire indicated that the blaze started in the flooring and Feeney said it appeared as though the oil burner either stuck or backfired.

Firemen confined the blaze to the engine room but were forced to remove portions of decking, flooring and switchboard paneling in fighting the flames. Water was pumped from the creek.

Praises Captain

Chief Murphy this morning praised Capt. Fred Godfrey of Fort Edward, who had charge of the tug and other craft docked near it. Godfrey, the chief said, was of valuable assistance in guiding the firemen through dense smoke in their efforts to check the fire.

The fire was raging to such an extent when the firemen arrived, the chief said, that it was a matter of only "a few minutes more and we would have lost the boat.

A member of the crew on a tow of the Callanan Road Improvement Company discovered the fire as the tow was passing the Feeney dock. He notified Fire Commissioner Edward Ryan, a watchman at the dock of the Christie Scow Corp., who relayed the call to the fire station.

An alarm was sounded at Box 3641 at about the same time of the telephone alarm. Engines from Central and Cornell stations and the truck from Wiltwyck station responded. The recall was sounded at 12:57 a. m.

Earlier Wednesday firemen checked two grass fires, one at 12:26 p. m. at Hudson and Spruce streets and the other at 5:50 p. m. in back of the Fuller shirt factory.

Cargoes of glass objects were often carried by ancient Phoenician merchant sailors.

der Secretary of State Acheson, saying "speed is of the essence," insisted today that bolstering Greece and Turkey against Communist aggression cannot wait for United Nations action.

He told the House Foreign Affairs Committee that the situation of the two Mediterranean nations is so serious that the United States must act alone, but assured the lawmakers:

"We are giving serious consideration and study to ways in which the United Nations may take hold of this problem after the present emergency is passed."

Acheson outlined the administration's position as the House group began hearings on President Truman's request for authority to send $400,000,000 and limited military aid to Greece and Turkey.

He did not mention Russia by name but commented that if the Greek-Turkish problem was put up to the United Nations it might run into a veto.

Acheson ran into a barrage of questions when he completed reading a prepared statement to the committee.

Rep. Vorys (R.-Ohio) asked for a break-down on how the $400,000,000 proposed for Greece and Turkey would be spent.

Acheson said $275,000,000 to $300,000,000 would be for Greek needs and $100,000,000 to $125,000,000 for the Turks.

"Would they be loans or grants?" Vorys pursued.

"That matter, I think, should be left in the hands of the president," Acheson replied. "My strong recommendation to the president would be that all these funds used for non-wealth producing purposes and military purposes should not be loans."

Demands to Know

Rep. Mundt (R.-S.D.) demanded to know whether there were any agreements made at Yalta or Potsdam that still remain secret.

(The Yalta conference brought together the late President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill. At Potsdam the "Big Three" were President Truman, Stalin and Prime Minister Attlee.)

The undersecretary responded that so far as he knows they have all been made public but promised to look into that point further and report to the committee.

Mundt commented:

"That's very important—that you say categorically that there are none, or if there are any to tell Congress why they can not be made public now."

"I shall be very glad to do that," Acheson said.

Terming the proposed aid to Greece and Turkey "ideological warfare," Mundt asserted that American Communists will attempt to "plant some of their people" among American missions and "try to sabotage the effort."

To Offer Amendment

He served notice that he would offer an amendment to have the F.B.I. "screen" all persons assigned to such missions.

Vorys inquired whether the State Department had known about the situation in Greece only three weeks.

"The general situation in Greece has been known in the department for the last 20 years," Acheson remarked.

A titter ran through the big hearing room, crowded with spectators.

"What is new about it," Acheson went on, "is that we were informed by the British government on February 24, in a note dated February 21, that they would have to discontinue financial aid at the end of the fiscal year, which is March 31."

Rep. Jonkman (R.-Mich.) asked why the United Nations could not undertake to assure Turkey's international integrity.

"If you were a Turk," Acheson replied dryly, "you would observe that the United Nations has not any armed forces and you would hesitate to put your reliance upon it."

HIGHLAND

Highland, March 20—Election of officers of the Men's Club of the Presbyterian Church was held at the regular meeting March 12 in the church hall when Jesse Alexander was elected president; Samuel D. Farnham, vice president; Everett Lyons, secretary and LeRoy Coutant, treasurer. Following the business the picture, "The Giant Killer" was shown and refreshments served by W. D. Corwin, Mr. Coutant and Philip Wendell. The meetings are held the second Wednesday of each month.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cramer were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ackerman, Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. James Byers, Litchfield, Conn., motored here Wednesday to visit their sisters, the Misses Edith and Hattie Dickinson. Mr. and Mrs. Byers reported driving through a tunnel of snow in the vicinity of Pawling.

Mrs. Thomas Sears was hostess to a bridge foursome Monday and Mrs. Franklin Welker to two tables with Mrs. Charles C. Whittaker and Miss Eliza Raymond as substitute players.

Mrs. Ethan Allen has been substituting for Mrs. Gladys Mears in grade 8-A in the central school. During the absence of Mrs. Rose Flax, commercial instructor this week, Mrs. Homer Muller is substitute. Miss Helen Sykes, art instructor, was absent Monday.

Members of the F.H.A. and F.F.A. held a dance Saturday evening in the high school auditorium. The advisors were Miss Ann McPhail, homemaking and Ray D. Baty, agriculture.

Mrs. Fred Lewis Vail entertained Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Coelho and son, Poughkeepsie, Mrs. Rose Seaman and Miss Francis Fagan on Sunday.

A bus will leave town at 8 o'clock April 5 for New York sponsored by the Music Study Club for those who wish to attend the opera Il Travatore or who wish to spend the day in the city. Reservations can be made with Mrs. Nathan Williams. There were nine vacancies Monday.

The fire company have responded to three calls within a week with the first on the former Eugene Leveque place, North road; the second Thursday evening at the Moschetto place on Vineyard avenue and the last Monday evening at the Trapani garage on the Clintondale road. No damage was reported.

Blows Are Exchanged By Cuban Senators

Havana, Cuba, March 20 (AP)—Two Cuban senators exchanged blows last night in the capital building in a dispute over Charles (Lucky) Luciano while the former New York vice trafficker was aboard a Turkish ship to sail for his second deportation to his native Italy.

The senatorial fighters were Eduardo R. Chibas and Francisco Prio Socarras, brother of Prime Minister Carlos Prio Socarras. They twice came to blows, but were separated by friends before damage was done.

Chibas had charged in a radio address Sunday that a brother of the prime minister was trying to secure permission for Luciano to remain in Cuba, despite President Ramon Grau San Martin's deportation order.

Witnesses said the senators used only their fists and that no pistol was drawn. One encounter started when Francisco Prio Socarras slapped Chibas. Later Chibas retaliated in the Senate chamber by striking the other, disrupting the Senate's business. In a secret session, the Senate appointed a commission to confer with the two to avoid further incidents.

Luciano was taken aboard the Turkish ship Bakir last night by Interior Minister Alfred Pequeno, who has had custody of the gangster since his arrest Feb. 22. The ship was booked to sail for Genoa.

The order expelling Luciano from Cuba was signed after the United States prohibited narcotics shipments to the island because of Luciano's presence in Havana. The ban was lifted after the expulsion order was signed and Luciano was confined to Tiscornia immigration camp.

The former New York panderer had been pardoned by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey early last year from a 30-50 year sentence for compulsory prostitution and deported to Italy.

Stiff Fight Ahead Against Tax Bill

Engel Leads Party Revolt Against Move by Rep. Knutson

Washington, March 20 (AP)—Democrats and a group of rebellious Republicans today promised a stiff House fight against the Knutson tax cutting bill despite a move toward revisions giving greater percentage relief to small taxpayers.

Rep. Engel (R.-Mich.), leading a party revolt against the measure by Rep. Knutson (R.-Minn.), slashing income taxes 20 per cent across the board, told reporters, "it still would be a rich man's bill" even with the proposed changes.

"I plan to take the fight to the House floor," he said.

Democratic members of the tax-framing Ways and Means committee which Knutson heads indicated the revisions will not alter their opposition. President Truman has asked Congress to apply any treasury surpluses to debt reduction instead of tax cuts.

Republican Ways and Means members called a huddle today to discuss a plan to give more than a 20 per cent cut to persons with taxable income (gross income minus personal exemptions), up to $1,000 or perhaps $2,000. They are considering a possible cut of 23 or 26 per cent for these lower income brackets.

Knutson said the full committee's showdown vote will come tomorrow. The G.O.P. leadership plans to call a conference of all House Republicans the same day to test out sentiment on tax cutting.

The bill probably will come to a vote in the House late next week.

Rep. Keating (R.-N.Y.), told reporters the proposed revisions "do not go far enough" in aiding small taxpayers, but said they probably would lessen some of the opposition in Republican ranks to a straight "across the board" cut.

Teams Up With Stork

Norman, Okla., (AP)—Jack Matlock, electrical engineering student at the University of Oklahoma, startled fellow students when he announced the stork had brought him five more mouths to feed. After receiving hearty congratulations, he explained his wife had presented him with twins—and at the same time his canary hatched three little peepsters.

Accuses Bevin on Frontiers

Moscow, March 20 (AP) — Commentator M. Marinin accused British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin in Pravda today of trying to create a fog of uncertainty concerning the future of Germany's frontiers. "It is well known," Marinin wrote "that the Berlin (Potsdam) conference introduced complete clarity into the most substantial questions connected with the future frontiers of Germany. "What reason is there to complain of 'uncertainty' in respect to these countries or that they might hamper the reparation program?"

Accuses Bevin on Frontiers

Moscow, March 20 (AP) — Commentator M. Marinin accused British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin in Pravda today of trying to create a fog of uncertainty concerning the future of Germany's frontiers. "It is well known," Marinin wrote "that the Berlin (Potsdam) conference introduced complete clarity into the most substantial questions connected with the future frontiers of Germany. "What reason is there to complain of 'uncertainty' in respect to these countries or that they might hamper the reparation program?"
